Walter Taylor's Two Bribery Convictions Upheld

EX-CLERK OF CITY
MUST SERVE TIME,
2 TRIBUNALS HOLD

Former City Official
Faces Chain Gang
Sentence of Four Years as Result of Rulings by High Courts.

ONLY ONE APPEAL

Case Set for Argument
December 21; Gang
Term Likely To Start
Within 10 Days.

Two decisions made public at the same time Wednesday, one from the supreme court and the other from the court of appeals, upheld convictions of Walter C. Taylor by the Fulton superior court for bribery and confirmed combined chain gang sentences for four years and fines totaling $2,000.

Usual procedure would call for the former city clerk to begin serving his prison sentence in about 10 days, whenever the clerk of the higher courts sends a remittitur in each case to the Fulton county court. Attorneys who represented Taylor, Reuben R. Arnold and Sam Hewlett, said they would have no statement to make concerning any further probable moves until after they have studied the decisions. Both are lengthy and packed with citations from other courts.

Supreme Court Unanimous.
The decision for the supreme court, unanimous, was written by Associate Justice Marcus W. Beck and affirms a conviction of Taylor for receiving a bribe of $800 to permit the firm of Clein & Ellman to operate an auction jewelry business under a simple jewelry license. In this case, Taylor received a chain gang sentence of 12 months and a fine of $500.

From the court of appeals affirmation of conviction and sentences on three other counts, Associate Justice Alexander H. Stephens disagreed and filed a unanimous dissenting opinion. The controlling opinion was written by Presiding Judge Roscoe Luke and concurred in by Judge Bell.

In this case, conviction was on three counts and Taylor was sentenced to serve 12 months on each count and pay fines totaling $1,500, the prison sentences to run consecutively. He was charged with accepting a bribe of $9,000 from George C. Spence, of one from Samuel N. Evans of $2,500 and another of $500, from M. P. Roane.

One Case Pending.
Wednesday's decisions leave pending, now in the supreme court, only one Taylor appeal and this, for the second time in the history of Georgia, was docketed at the instance of the state. A fifth case, in which Taylor was indicted in connection with the purchase of land for the city hall site, is now on the docket of the Fulton superior court.

The lone remaining case in the high court is set for argument December 21. It differs from the other conviction.

Wounded in Road Ambush, Atlanta Man Informs Police

Returning to Atlanta Wednesday morning with a slight bullet wound in the neck and backshot and bullet holes in the rear of his automobile, R. F. Stocks, 27, of 351 Grant street, S. E., told Grady hospital attendants a strange story of a roadside ambush by "30 hi-jackers" about 10 miles west of Douglasville.

Stocks' story was to the effect that he and three companions, named as Joe Tom Finks, Ed Spivey and Roscoe Harbin, had gone into Douglasville Tuesday afternoon to hunt. The party was armed with rifles, he said.

En route back to Atlanta shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, he said, an effort was made by approximately 30 men to halt the car not far from Austell, by placing an auto machine across the highway.

TEMBLOR SHAKES MIDSOUTH STATES

Arkansas to Alabama Area Feels 'Quake of Half-Minute Duration.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 16.—(AP)—An earthquake rocked the entire midsouth at 9:40 o'clock tonight and created consternation among residents in sections of four states. Slight damage was reported. The temblor was felt from Helena, Ark., on the west, to Birmingham on the east, and from Jackson, Miss., on the south to Jackson, Tenn., on the north.

At Corinth, Miss., where the shock appeared to have been the greatest, windows were broken and walls cracked.

Professor W. L. Kennon, professor of physics and astronomy at the University of Mississippi, said it was the "third and most severe felt in northern Mississippi in the last 20 years."

"It was a mild earthquake shock with considerable rumbling and lasted about 30 seconds," Professor Kennon said.

Guests left their rooms in Memphis hotels, despite the downpour of rain, when the shock was felt. Sleeping persons in many sections of the city were awakened. Houses were shaken but no serious damage was reported. The shock was felt in Birmingham, Helena and several north Mississippi towns about the same time as in Memphis.

HOOVER DEBT PLAN MOVES SLOWLY TOWARD DECISION

Rep. McFadden Reopens Attack on Moratorium in Turbulent Hearing Before Committee.

BY RICHARD L. TURNER.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Unbowed by the reputation of his colleagues and the bitter censure of others, Representative McFadden, stocky-Pennsylvanian, calmly but defiantly opposed the Hoover moratorium today before the house ways and means committee.

His appearance brought to a close a day of parliamentary dramas which saw the president's debt holiday proposal move slowly toward a vote which its sponsors predicted would give it the approval of the house by Saturday.

McFadden's severe criticism of President Hoover and his charge that the chief executive had "sold out" to Germany made him the target of denunciations as soon as the congressional day had begun.

Beedy, of Maine, angular Yankee republican, accused him of uttering falsehoods and members of both parties arose to applaud as he vigorously defended the president.

Twenty-five of McFadden's fellow Pennsylvanians adopted a resolution declaring "complete confidence" in the chief executive. Treadway, Massachusetts republican, moved that he not be permitted to speak before the committee.

In addition, Representative Snell, the republican leader, and a group of his party chiefs told President Hoover that the Pennsylvania had been repudiated by democrats and republicans alike. Beedy, he said, had "taken the hide off of him."

McFadden, who served for 10 years as chairman of the house banking committee, delivered a quiet, carefully phrased extemporaneous speech before the committee, much in the manner of one reading a prepared statement. He was interrupted frequently by questions from Treadway, but was unruffled and had ready answers.

At one point, he asserted that the moratorium was linked inseparably with revision of war debts. Treadway cut in:

"You have made that statement twice in the face of the statement by the president and Undersecretary Mills (of the treasury) that they are entirely separate. Yet, so far as I am concerned, you present no proof."

"I prefer to let my statement

Columbus Infant Dies After Fight for Life

Infection and pneumonia Wednesday night won a four-day fight against medical science when 10-month-old Thomas Downs, of Columbus, died at the Georgia Baptist hospital as the result of a glass bead being lodged at the top of his lung.

The child, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Downs, had been hovering between life and death since Sunday, when it sucked the bead into the air passages leading to the lung.

A swelling of the passage into which the bead was lodged prevented the use of the bronchoscope to remove the object and the pneumonia which followed caused the child's death.

W. D. Barker, superintendent of the hospital, said that the local specialists were handicapped by the serious condition of the child when it was brought to the hospital. Mr. Barker cautioned parents against giving trinkets to children which might be sucked down into the windpipe.

"Special care," he said, "should be exercised during the Christmas season not to allow babies and small children to play with tinsel and tree decorations."

Atlanta Thrills To Awe-Inspiring Spectacle As Mammoth Airship Akron Soars Over City

The Akron, majestic in dull silver as she slid through the morning mists, surprised Atlanta's thousands by arriving over the city two hours before her scheduled "date." She is shown here over the Union station. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Uncle Sam's youngest daughter of the air, the dirigible Akron, made her debut debut Wednesday and was received by the southwestern "city of the future" with a visit or perhaps 20 minutes' duration, the world's largest airship gracefully pointed to the southwest and amid the well wishes of Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., representing all Georgians, made her exit.

The big dirigible's arrival over Atlanta took thousands by surprise. Previously it had been announced that the Akron would reach this city shortly after noon, but at 10:10 a. m.

GERMAN APPEAL GIVEN SETBACKS

Young Plan Group Finds Foreign Trade Balance Would Pay Reparations.

BY MERRILL K. WHITELEATHER.
BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Germany's appeal for reduction in reparations received several severe setbacks today.

It was understood a subcommittee of the Young plan advisory commission discovered that Germany's foreign trade balance should be more than sufficient to pay unconditional reparations annuities of about $150,000,000.

The subcommittee, which tried for a week to establish the net indebtedness of the Reich, turned in a report which was withheld from the public but will be incorporated in the final findings of the investigators.

The reference to the foreign trade excess was understood to have been included in the report at the request of the French, who wished to combat arguments that Germany was unable to pay the non-postponable annuities considered inviolable by the Paris government.

The subcommittee found, it was learned, that the total interest on

CHANG QUILTS POST AS ARMY'S CHIEF

By The Associated Press.
Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, resigned as commander-in-chief of the Manchurian forces yesterday.

Marshal Chang, who has been strongly opposed by the Japanese army, nominated Chang Tso-hsiang, former provincial governor of Kirin, as his successor.

Invited by the Nanking government to become military commissioner in north China, he countered with a recommendation that military affairs there be handled by a military council, with himself as chairman, and that a political council also be named.

The new Japanese cabinet of Premier Inukai today decided to send more troops to Manchuria.

Recommendations of the war office were approved on the ground that reinforcements were necessary to relieve

IMPORTANT WORK SOUTH OF ATLANTA TO BE CARRIED OUT

Most of Contracts Call for Highway Construction in Central and South Georgia, Where Weather Is Better.

SAVING TO STATE SEEN IN AWARDS

Chairman Barnett Says That Bids on Many Projects Were Lower Than Contemplated.

Thirty contracts on 23 projects for road construction, totaling $1,674,836.88, were awarded Wednesday by the state highway board.

Chairman J. W. Barnett, in commenting on the contracts, said that the bids received on many of the projects were much lower than highway engineers had contemplated and that by building highways at the present time the board was saving the state a large amount of money.

Many important projects are contained in the contracts, most of which are in central and south Georgia, since weather conditions are more favorable to construction of roads in these sections during the winter and spring months, the chairman said.

Result of Awards.
The projects and those who received contracts, together with their bids, follow:

Bacon County—One concrete bridge on the Douglas-Alma road over Little Hurricane creek at Survey Station 100, Goodwyn & Hume, Montgomery, Ala., $140,715.95.

Baldwin County—3.835 miles of graded road on the Milledgeville-Sparta road, beginning four miles east of Milledgeville and ending near the Baldwin-Hancock county line, Beckham-Lawley Construction Company, Perry, Ga., $24,591.91.

Cherokee County—3.848 miles of graded road on the Marietta-Canton road, beginning at Survey Station 100, ending at Canton, M. R. Woodall, Atlanta, $34,033.75.

Cherokee County—One steel and concrete bridge over the Etowah river at Canton, Howerton & Hageman, Asheville, N. C., $41,241.30.

Road to Colquitt.
Colquitt County—4.583 miles of pebble-soil road on the Moultrie-Camilla road, beginning at the west end of federal-aid project 51 and ending at the Colquitt-Mitchell county line, Hooper Construction Company, Chattanooga, Fla., $71,159.90.

Colquitt County—Five bridges on the Moultrie-Camilla road, W. F. Scott, Thomasville, $20,594.

Colquitt County—4.862 miles of concrete paving on the Moultrie-Thomaston road, beginning at Moultrie and ending at the north end of federal-aid project 487-A, Van Gordon Construction Company, Jacksonville, Fla., $20,290.

Evans County—10.311 miles of graded road on the Reidsville-Pembroke road, W. F. Scott, Thomasville, $20,594.

Coweta County.
Coweta County—Bids for furnishing wire-cut lug brick, asphalt, fuel and sand for cushions for street paving in the city of Newton, Survey Station 100, Hooper Construction Company, Chattanooga, $20,290.

Evans County—10.311 miles of graded road on the Reidsville-Pembroke road, W. F. Scott, Thomasville, $20,594.

Investments of $1,250,000 Appreciated to $24,430,934 In Holding Company Deal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(UP)—The federal trade commission was told today by Examiner Kenneth A. Miller that North American Light and Power Company, giant utilities holding company operating in the middle west, "appreciated its investments" by more than $23,000,000 prior to its reorganization in 1928.

The present company grew out of the consolidation of North American Light and Power of Maine and North American Light and Power Corporation of Delaware.

Miller testified that about $16,000,000 of the stated value of $24,430,934 given the securities issued by the new company was on the books of North American of Maine prior to reorganization. This amount had gotten on

Subscribers to Ten Opportunities, sponsored by The Constitution for the relief of needy families, reached a new low mark for this week Wednesday when only $31.50 was received into the general fund.

And with the slight response to the city-wide appeal, the hopes of more than 40 destitute people revivified a low ebb, their condition made more pitiful by the dreary and biting weather.

Words do not serve to describe the hardships which the 10 needy families suffer each day. Many of them have no food, being forced to make frequent visits to the relief centers

ARGENTINA REDUCES ADVERSE U. S. TRADE
BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 16.—(AP)—On the first ten months of this year Argentina reduced by two-thirds the adverse trade balance with the United States, where most of the country's buying is done.
In that period Argentina bought $15,942,000 more in the United States than she sold there, as compared with $45,174,000 during the same period of 1930.

BRUENING SCORES ANOTHER VICTORY

Chancellor Ignores Hitler
Broadside as Council Blocks Reichstag.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's government weathered another storm today when the council of elders refused to convene the reichstag.

The council turned down by a vote of 321 to 256 a joint motion calling for convocation which was submitted by the national socialist, nationalist, communist and people's parties. This action meant that Dr. Brüning will continue unhampered in his virtually dictatorial rule.
Another storm, which had been gathering for some time, burst today but did not cause as much excitement as had been expected. Adolf Hitler's 40-page reply to the chancellor's recent attack on Naziism appeared in the form of an open letter in which the fascist leader accused the government of pursuing a policy of illusion.
The general belief in government circles was that the chancellor would not even reply to the Hitler attack.
The full text of the 9,000-word letter had not been received in Berlin tonight, and the few excerpts carried by the newspapers aroused little editorial comment. There was nothing comparable to the 40-page answer afforded Herr Hitler when he gave out his recent interview to foreign correspondents in which he declared a Nazi government would respect the claims of foreign bondholders.

"If the German nation commissions the nationalist socialist party to change the constitution, then not even the chancellor can prevent it," Herr Hitler said in his open letter. "Herr Brüning said in his open letter, 'The Nazi leader asserted his party was wholly legal and predicted its ultimate triumph.'"

"The only illegal things about our movement are the agents provocateurs," he wrote. "The government itself, we can prove, puts those agents there. Fifteen national socialists have been killed during the last year, and 4,000 injured."

"What you, Mr. Chancellor, demand is that there shall be no opposition whatever," said another passage. "The use of police power can, of course, forbid speaking and writing, but that is tolerable only when a government achieves great successes. If we are not to talk why not give us the power, and we will cease talking and go to work."

Pointing out that many former soldiers who know war are members of the Nazi party, Herr Hitler said: "But they would rather give their lives than lose their liberty. If you try to kill that spirit you sign the death warrant of the German nation."
The salvation of Germany must be effected first, politically, and second, economically, he declared. "You cannot cure a nation's pocketbook and ignore its soul. Our honor has been taken from us, yet you talk about nothing but economy."

The recent drastic emergency decree, the Nazi leader continued, will contribute "to Germany's salvation by an effect contrary to the intention of it—it will help my movement come into its own."

Many commentators have declared since Chancellor Brüning's recent attack on the Hitler movement that Naziism was losing its threat. But a different stand was taken at a meeting today of delegates representing the social-democratic party, the workers' sport union, the reichsbanner organization and the federation of socialist trade unions.

These delegates, representing 6,000,000 workers, pledged war on fascism and defense of the republic with all the weapons at their command.
"We shall continue to fight against fascism with increased activity and to combat fascists by employing their own methods," they declared in a resolution.

WALTER TAYLOR LOSES APPEALS

tions in that the question is whether the statute of limitations has run in the case of the late J. A. Bell, a former member of council, who, the state charged, Taylor attempted to bribe. Taylor was convicted and sentenced to serve 12 months, but the court of appeals reversed the conviction. This reversal will be reviewed by the supreme court next week.

Many Exceptions Noted.
Approximately 100 exceptions to the lower court's verdict and sentence in the two cases were noted in briefs filed by Taylor's counsel. Many of these dealt with refusal of the judge to include certain requested charges to the jury, a number were exceptions to the charges at the lower court trial, but the main ones were:

In the court of appeals the contention that Taylor was a ministerial officer, rather than administrative officer and that his duties as clerk were such that he could not be held guilty of influencing council action when not a member himself.
In the supreme court case, the major exception was to the refusal of the lower court to grant a new trial on the ground that the offense charged was barred by the statute of limitations. In this case also the constitutionality of the city's license act was assailed.

Appeals Court Decision.
In the case decided by the court of appeals Wednesday, in which convictions on three separate bribery counts were sustained, the majority opinion of the court said:

"The trial judge did not err in overruling the demurrer to the indictment; the evidence supports the verdict and no ground of the amendment to the motion for a new trial presents any valid reason for reversing the case."

In discussing one of the three counts in the case, that charging that Taylor accepted a bribe of $9,000 to influence council action in litigation with Thomas B. Brady by which the plaintiffs received a $30,000 settlement out of court, the controlling opinion of the court said:

"We are of the opinion that the present indictment sufficiently alleges that the accused accepted a bribe to influence his official behavior—in this case, in committing and certifying said ordinance."

Clerk's Powers Defined.
As to the defense contention that Taylor's duties were restricted by ordinance, with emphasis placed on his clerical relation to the council, the court said:

"Public officers have not only the powers expressly conferred upon them by law but they also possess by necessary implication such powers as are requisite to enable them to discharge the official duties devolved upon them."
"The jury," this opinion continued, "were not bound to accept literally the testimony of any one of the persons from whom the defendant received the rewards in this case but, as they have already found the circumstances were such in each instance that the jury could have concluded that a completely executed result favorable to the other party to the agreement was expected and required at the hands of the defendant, in the execution of which the defendant himself, if not the other party, official acted in the doing of the official act which he did in fact perform under the influence of the bribe."

Judge Stephens Dissents.
To this conclusion Judge Stephens dissented in the following language:
"The only official conduct of the defendant Taylor as clerk of the council which, as alleged in the indictment, was influenced by money alleged to have been paid to him was affixing a stamp evidencing approval upon the ordinances and resolutions, transmitting them from one body to another, making certified copies, and transmitting copies to the departments of government."

"As it impresses me," Judge Stephens said, "the conclusion that Taylor's official conduct in the purely ministerial duties of stamping the ordinances and resolutions, etc., was influenced by his acceptance of the money can be predicated only upon a mere conjecture, upon a mere possibility, or upon a mere figment of the imagination and not upon any legitimate inference from the testimony."

Bribery Is Defined.
Another citation adopted by the Georgia court held:

"The general rule is that the purpose or object sought by the bribe may be anything within the scope of authority of the official bribed. Furthermore, if any executive officer receives money in consideration of a promise not to take official action against a certain class of offenders, the receipt of such money is a bribery, whether or not the officer failed to act."

Taylor had been tried four times in the Fulton superior court and convicted each time. The court of appeals reversed a conviction in the 1926, 600,000 shares of common stock were issued, 510,000 of which were divided between the General Electric Company, Middle West Utilities Company and the North American Company. Each company was given 170,000 shares, the examiner said, General Electric receiving 102,000 shares and the other two companies, 204,000 each. General Electric's stock was valued at $102,000, but the company's notes were paid within a short time.
The examiner told the commission that 90 per cent of the total common stock issued by the company was held by a "rotating trust," and that actual control of the company was in the hands of "rotating trustees."

Net Earnings Increased 100 Per Cent.
Examiner Miller told the commission yesterday that the North American Power & Light Company realized an increase of 102.24 per cent in net earnings between 1924 and 1930.
Five commission examiners testified regarding financial organization and activities of the company. North American Power & Light is controlled jointly by the Insull, North American and Studebaker interests.
The company's net earnings in 1921 amounted to $88,893, Miller testified. They increased to $18,350,582 in 1930.
The inter and intrastate transactions of the company were outlined by Smith W. Brookhart Jr., a former commission examiner and now secretary to his father, Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa.
Brookhart said the system in 1929 produced 583,646,368 kilowatt hours of electric energy, or .61 per cent of the total generated by all companies in the United States.
Clement Studebaker Jr., president of the company, and George T. Buckingham, chief counsel, both of Chicago, attended the hearing.
The North American group, according to Miller, in 1930 supplied electric power and light to over 340,000 customers in 873 communities in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

Must Go to Chaingang

WALTER C. TAYLOR.

mony which can be arrived at when due consideration is given to the motives and actions of men and the impulses which influence and direct human conduct."

Exception Emphasized.
In upholding the conviction on the charge that Taylor accepted a bribe of $400 to secure a special license for Clein & Ellman, and against which the defense, in its appeal, pleaded the statute of limitations, the court's opinion emphasized one of only a few exceptions to this particular restrictive statute. That, it said, provides that the statute of limitations "shall not run so long as the offender or offense is unknown."

In its syllabus of the opinion in the Clein & Ellman $400 case, the court ruled:

"That, the office of (city) clerk (of Atlanta) is such an office that the crime of bribery is committed in respect thereto when an officer or employee of the city receives money to influence his behavior in the office and (the) indictment is not open to a general demurrer."

In Section 2 of the Georgia constitution, it is provided that no law shall be enacted which shall be a general demurrer.

Danger of "Graft" Cited.
In upholding the appeal, citing a New Jersey decision, the court wrote:

"Among ancient peoples and even among the Romans the giving of rewards and emoluments to public officers, and especially judicial officers, was tolerated and even encouraged, and without such inducements no audience could be had."

"The enlightened civilization," Associate Justice Beck continued to quote, "of the present age quickly apprehended the danger of such custom and hence the fiat of the common law against it. And in modern times the heinousness of the offense, becoming more apparent as the power of wealth increased, the crime has been in many cases made punishable by death."

The spirit of any democratic government is utterly abhorrent to anything which tends to corruption in the representatives of the people or threatens the purity of the administration.

Bribery Is Defined.
Another citation adopted by the Georgia court held:

"The general rule is that the purpose or object sought by the bribe may be anything within the scope of authority of the official bribed. Furthermore, if any executive officer receives money in consideration of a promise not to take official action against a certain class of offenders, the receipt of such money is a bribery, whether or not the officer failed to act."

The examiner told the commission that 90 per cent of the total common stock issued by the company was held by a "rotating trust," and that actual control of the company was in the hands of "rotating trustees."

Net Earnings Increased 100 Per Cent.
Examiner Miller told the commission yesterday that the North American Power & Light Company realized an increase of 102.24 per cent in net earnings between 1924 and 1930.
Five commission examiners testified regarding financial organization and activities of the company. North American Power & Light is controlled jointly by the Insull, North American and Studebaker interests.
The company's net earnings in 1921 amounted to $88,893, Miller testified. They increased to $18,350,582 in 1930.
The inter and intrastate transactions of the company were outlined by Smith W. Brookhart Jr., a former commission examiner and now secretary to his father, Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa.
Brookhart said the system in 1929 produced 583,646,368 kilowatt hours of electric energy, or .61 per cent of the total generated by all companies in the United States.
Clement Studebaker Jr., president of the company, and George T. Buckingham, chief counsel, both of Chicago, attended the hearing.
The North American group, according to Miller, in 1930 supplied electric power and light to over 340,000 customers in 873 communities in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

CLINICAL SOCIETY IN MONTHLY MEET
The Atlanta Clinical Society held its monthly meeting at the Academy of Medicine Wednesday night, when Dr. W. O. Martin acted as host. The topic under discussion was "Upper Respiratory Diseases."

Papers were read by Dr. T. S. Burgess, Dr. R. R. Kracke, Dr. Vernon Powell, Dr. William Kiser, Dr. George Lewis, Dr. W. Calhoun and Dr. S. H. Shipper.

It will be seen that the General Electric Company did not intend to invest permanently in the common stock of the company, but rather to hold it for a short time, and "has had no financial interest in the company since 1927, as it is understood that the company's notes were paid within a short time."

The examiner told the commission that 90 per cent of the total common stock issued by the company was held by a "rotating trust," and that actual control of the company was in the hands of "rotating trustees."

A thousand Chinese troops, occupying a strong defensive position behind thick mud walls and in blockhouses slotted with loopholes, were driven from the village of Machiatshi, Manchuria, by 200 Japanese after brisk fighting yesterday.

The battle was fought in bitter cold. Thirty-four Chinese were killed and eight wounded. Japanese suffered five dead and eight wounded.

Another engagement 15 miles south of Chanchun, 20 bandits were killed by Japanese infantrymen.

Meanwhile, the Japanese authorities pressed on with the organization of civil government in Manchuria, with every indication that they would dominate the province economically.

Economic "moppers-up," following on the heels of General Honjo's troops, already have taken over numerous railway lines formerly operated by the Chinese. They have assumed control of financial houses, rich mining properties and important manufacturing and commercial enterprises.

In Tokyo, Premier Hamaguchi proceeded with the organization of his new government after receiving assurances that, although he controls only a minority in the lower house, the opposition majority will not provoke a crisis.

Neither Japanese party wanted an election, it was said, because each candidate would have to spend $20,000 to $50,000 in the campaign.

In addition, the military authorities have called on the nation to prepare for a united front because of the conflict with China.

In Shanghai, leaders of the Cantonese faction indicated a more aggressive foreign policy would be adopted by the government that will succeed the administration of Chiang Kai-shek, who resigned from the Nanking presidency yesterday.

Akron encountered bad weather, and abandoned its flight to the Louisiana city, turning back eastward toward Lakehurst, its home port. Whether it would include Atlanta in its return itinerary was not known, no definite route having been announced.

Shortly before 5 o'clock, central time, the naval radio station at New Orleans was in contact with the big ship, and was advised by Commander Rosendahl that the dirigible had run into heavy rains, poor visibility and a low ceiling after leaving Mobile. Since the same kind of weather prevailed in the New Orleans area, it was decided to turn toward Lakehurst rather than attempt the visit to the Crescent City.

CITY IS GRANTED MONTH'S CREDIT

Surgical Supply Houses
Not To "Close Down" at Once.

Extension of credit to the city of Atlanta for 30 days, until the 1932 finance committee meets, was agreed upon Wednesday by surgical supply houses in a conference with Mayor James L. Key, City Comptroller B. Graham West, Alderman G. Everett Millican and Councilmen Claude L. Barwell and J. Frank Beck.

The surgical houses had written the city that they would not sell the city on open account unless supplied with warrants bearing 7 per cent interest for deliveries to the city. City officials who conferred with the surgical supply representatives agreed that the city would endeavor to put all of its past due bills on a businesslike basis in making up the 1932 finance sheet.

The first announcement Tuesday afternoon was that the ultimatum had been laid down to the city by the wholesale druggists. This proved to be an error, however, as the letter to Lloyd Walker, city purchasing agent, was from the surgical supply houses. Comptroller West said that there has been very little grumbling by city vendors and that there have been no other threats to stop doing business with the city.

SIX GOOD USED CARS AWAIT HIGHEST BIDS.

Six good used cars await the highest bidders in The Constitution's Ten Opportunities. Six cars in the best of condition, given by John Smith Company to aid needy people. Bids should be made by telephone or letter to the Ten Opportunities editor, of The Constitution, at the dealer's showrooms, 536 West Peachtree street.

Here they are:
1928 Chevrolet sedan, value $250.
1929 Essex sedan, value $225.
1929 Ford Tudor, value $225.
1927 Chevrolet sedan, value $150.
1927 Dodge sedan, value $150.
1925 Pierce-Arrow, value $200.

HIGHEST BIDS WEDNESDAY: Ford Tudor, $50, by Roy White. 1928 Chevrolet, $50, by Bill Randolph, Avondale. Essex, $35, by R. L. Springfield, Decatur. Pierce-Arrow, $37.50, by Ellis Powell. Dodge, $35, by S. H. Cox, 1445 Van Epps avenue.

ATLANTANS DEAF TO NEEDY APPEALS

In Atlanta. Others of them have only a loaf of bread a day, while others subsist entirely upon salvaged fruits and vegetables.

Gaunt and cold, they are almost numb with despair. It positively is no exaggeration to say they are reverting to a sullen acceptance of their fate. At night they gather together after a day of search for work that cannot be found. Tired and dumb with pain and sorrow, they plod through their existence.

Cash subscriptions Wednesday were $31.50—only a month's support for any one of the ten. The largest amount received was $10, two sympathetic people giving that much each. Two little girls, Lillian and Rebecca Deal, heard a radio piece for these families Tuesday night and they called in person to get $1 each for those who will not have the toys and goodies Lillian and Rebecca will have Christmas morning. Their savings "to buy mother and daddy a present" were given cheerfully to those who are in need.

Through Wednesday night, only one family had been "adopted," that one, Opportunity No. 3, by the Young people's department of Druid Hills Methodist church. The young people's organization will clothe, feed and shelter that family during 1932.

In addition to the generous act of the church group, the John Smith Company, 536 West Peachtree street, Chevrolet dealers, gave six used cars to be sold to the highest bidders, the proceeds to go to Ten Opportunities. The cars are all in excellent condition and bidders serve a two-fold good in aiding the fund and at the same time taking steps to obtain a good automobile.

So far the bids have been low, but within the week prices will be boosted in accord with the value of the cars. The cars may be inspected and bidders may secure demonstrations at the display rooms of the John Smith Company.

Through radio and news column appeal, The Constitution is offering Atlanta Ten Opportunities. Every one of the ten families was investigated and found to be worthy of aid. Their condition is pitiful, for which they are in no way to be blamed. Misfortune strikes indiscriminately.

If Atlanta people respond by giving a portion of their Christmas budgets to this fund, much misery and suffering can be avoided. Conditions have not been exaggerated. People are actually starving, strange as that may seem to you who see only the best side of life. Scores of families huddle together for warmth and share bread crusts that more fortunate people cast away as garbage. Clothing is scarce, and with many of them, coal is something they are yet to see this winter.

Is there any possible way to make you see this anguish and sorrow, Atlanta people? What if that happened to you or to your loved ones? If that little girl or that little boy of yours was hungry and cold tonight, wouldn't your everlasting gratitude to go to the one who fed and clothed your child?

Your money will buy you nothing except happiness Christmas—nothing except a thrill you will receive because someone else is happy. Will you not use a part of that which you intend to spend and give it to people to whom a loaf of bread means more than a sumptuous meal to you? Can you deny the appeal, mute and heart-breaking from these poor victims of destitution?

We don't believe you can.

Subscriptions Wednesday:
Mrs. W. E. Higginbotham, $10.00
Herbert W. Finch, 10.00
Mrs. Lloyd B. Parker, 5.00
Friend from Woodstock, 2.00
B. M. C., 1.50
Lillian Deal, 1.00
Rebecca Deal, 1.00
J. H. Davis, 1.00
Total, $31.50

Fly and Aid the Fund!

H. Dolan, operations manager, Eastern Air Transport, Wednesday made the offer to The Constitution's Ten Opportunities and it was gratefully accepted.

The flights Sunday will start early in the afternoon and continue until dark. The planes will be an American Airways trimotor Fokker and an Eastern Air Transport twin-motored Kingbird, both planes being in regular passenger transport service on lines radiating out of Atlanta, and both to be flown by regular passenger transport pilots.

The two air transport companies want every dollar received to go to the aid of two or more Opportunities families and every person taking advantage of this unusually long flight Sunday will know that while they are enjoying a pre-Christmas air trip they will be aiding some unfortunates throughout the year 1932.

MOVES SLOWLY
TOWARD DECISION

stand," McFadden replied, after predicting a debt revision conference within three months.

"And I will let the implication of my statement stand," was Treadway's rejoinder.

McFadden, a heavy set man of medium height, middle-aged, wearing rimless glasses and a somber bow tie, launched upon a severe criticism of the activities of international bankers.

They have loaded the small banks of America with foreign securities, he said, and this has been the cause of many bank failures. He said America had associated herself with France in a position that Germany must pay her unconditional reparations annuities.

Rankin's Statement.
McFadden was preceded before the committee by Representative Rankin, Mississippi democrat, another opponent of the moratorium. He spoke principally of war debt revision, proposed by the administration, but an issue separate from the moratorium.

"I say to you that every country that owes us a dollar will pay us every dollar of it if we do not cancel them," he said. "If we lose our fight on this moratorium, I will personally see that we will have done one thing, stopped all future reductions."

Opportunity No. 8

Three little girls and their mother, who is hardly more than a girl herself—four struggling human beings trying to make a way in the world for themselves.

It was only a few years ago that this young mother was carefree and happy. Three babies filled her days with the pleasure of caring for them. Then the father and husband deserted them and since that morning four years ago they haven't seen or heard of him.

Mrs. B. was left with no resources except her own will and determination. Business was better then and she was able to support her children by doing laundry work and house cleaning. Last year the business slump turned people to doing more of their own housework and Mrs. B. found work scarcer and harder to get.

Last winter conditions were almost unbearable and as a last resort Mrs. B. moved into the house with her four children, thinking that strength would perhaps be found in numbers. Work has grown more difficult to find and recently the aged grandparents, the mother and the four children, have been forced to exist on the two or three dollars a week the grandfather earns selling papers on street corners.

At present this family is facing disaster. They have no clothing of sufficient weight to turn the cold blasts of winter. Their food is meager. Their health is failing. They face thoseills which undernourishment causes. The young mother has been under clinical treatment for several months.

Only the aid of more fortunate people will rescue this group from absolute destitution; $35 a month or $420 a year will enable the mother to build up her constitution and the children to attend school. Their recent subsistence has been only bread.

There is Opportunity No. 8, worthy of the sympathy and support of all. Think it over—then subscribe to the care of this family. Arrange to contribute the $35 a month needed. If you cannot, but if more than $5 or $10 or $100.

Give a part of your Christmas budget to this family and you will be happier.

At the start of the house committee's meeting, Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, expressed opposition to McFadden's appearance before it.

"I protest this committee being made the means whereby the gentleman from Pennsylvania will continue this sort of attack on the president of the United States," he said. "It carries high condemnation."

Representative Crisp, of Georgia, said he thought Treadway's motion would have to be rejected and after some discussion the Massachusetts member withdrew it. But he said that if McFadden repeated the assertions he made in the house yesterday he would ask that they be stricken from the record.

Defending President Hoover against McFadden's charges, Reedy said that in all American history he had heard of nothing that would parallel "the infamous speech of the gentleman from Pennsylvania." Republicans arose and cheered as he asserted:

"I demand proof that the president was an agent of the German government."

At this point Representative Bank-Tennessee, introduced an amendment to the moratorium ratification resolution under which the debt holiday could not be extended beyond the present year and cancellation of war debts would be forbidden.

Stimson told the ways and means committee the president had gone to investigate of foreign loans and security of every available source for information on the European economic situation before acting. In this connection he presented a letter from President Von Hindenburg, of Germany, to Mr. Hoover, which the Associated Press published exclusively last July 21. It said Germany was in "urgent need" of relief.

"The accusation is made that the purpose of the plan (the moratorium) was to permit bankers to withdraw from Germany imprudent loans," Stimson said.

"The purpose and result . . . were to persuade the various people who had made the loans that the surest way to get the money back was not to withdraw . . . if the conditions had been permitted to go on, the chances of ever again getting payments were infinitesimally small."

Mills, before the senate finance committee, in response to a question as to what the consequences of non-ratification would be, said:

"It would do irretrievable damage to the reputation of our country. We hold unsecured notes of our debtor countries. We are not going to send out battalions to collect them. We rely on a moral principle. In my judgment, if we don't regard moral principles then they (America's European debtor nations) may well feel we have given them justification to default."

head, an Alabama democrat, brought members of both parties to the feet in an ovation by saying:

"I want to take this occasion to call attention to the fact that these charges—amounting in effect to an impeachment of the president of the United States for high crimes and misdemeanors—do not come from the democratic side."

At this point Representative Bank-Tennessee, introduced an amendment to the moratorium ratification resolution under which the debt holiday could not be extended beyond the present year and cancellation of war debts would be forbidden.

Stimson told the ways and means committee the president had gone to investigate of foreign loans and security of every available source for information on the European economic situation before acting. In this connection he presented a letter from President Von Hindenburg, of Germany, to Mr. Hoover, which the Associated Press published exclusively last July 21. It said Germany was in "urgent need" of relief.

"The accusation is made that the purpose of the plan (the moratorium) was to permit bankers to withdraw from Germany imprudent loans," Stimson said.

head, an Alabama democrat, brought members of both parties to the feet in an ovation by saying:

"I want to take this occasion to call attention to the fact that these charges—amounting in effect to an impeachment of the president of the United States for high crimes and misdemeanors—do not come from the democratic side."

Late in the day Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, expressed opposition to McFadden's appearance before it.

"I protest this committee being made the means whereby the gentleman from Pennsylvania will continue this sort of attack on the president of the United States," he said. "It carries high condemnation."

Representative Crisp, of Georgia, said he thought Treadway's motion would have to be rejected and after some discussion the Massachusetts member withdrew it. But he said that if McFadden repeated the assertions he made in the house yesterday he would ask that they be stricken from the record.

Defending President Hoover against McFadden's charges, Reedy said that in all American history he had heard of nothing that would parallel "the infamous speech of the gentleman from Pennsylvania." Republicans arose and cheered as he asserted:

"I demand proof that the president was an agent of the German government."

Mills, before the senate finance committee, in response to a question as to what the consequences of non-ratification would be, said:

"It would do irretrievable damage to the reputation of our country. We hold unsecured notes of our debtor countries. We are not going to send out battalions to collect them. We rely on a moral principle. In my judgment, if we don't regard moral principles then they (America's European debtor nations) may well feel we have given them justification to default."

RELIEF CO-ORDINATION PLEDGED BY AGENCIES

Program of Social Planning
Also Favored by Council, Report Reveals.

Representatives of Atlanta's welfare agencies pledged their support Wednesday afternoon to a program of social planning and co-ordination of relief activities, approving at a meeting of the Atlanta Social Welfare Council the report of a committee which had made a survey of the local relief situation and its needs.

The council, which is composed of representatives of welfare agencies in the Community Chest and outside that organization as well, voted to create a "co-ordinating committee" to become a clearing house for social work projects and activities.

"The co-operation of the entire community must be sought," said the report which was approved, "so that all relief projects may be co-ordinated and that no new projects be started without the knowledge of all concerned."

Definite organization of the Social Welfare Council for concentrated study of social needs here, through committees which are designed each to survey a particular field, was completed with appointment of the following committees:

Family welfare, child care and standards of living: E. M. Kahn, chairman; Miss Rhoda Kaufman, Major J. Arthur Fynn, Mrs. W. A. Albright, Dr. George Dwell, Miss Amy Chadwick, Miss Lottie Ram-speak, W. H. Johnson, Miss Ernestine McGill.

Education and recreation: Hal Hentz, chairman; M. E. Coleman, Mrs. Frank Holland, W. A. Dobson, Jere Wells, M. Duggan, W. P. Anderson, J. M. Childers.

Public health and clinics: J. B. Franklin, chairman; Miss Lillian Alexander, C. W. Washington, Miss Mary Dickinson, Dr. J. H. Bradford, Dr. R. H. Oppenheimer, Dr. J. P. Kennedy.

Research and publicity: Mrs. Armand Wyle, Miss Clara Nolen, W. Henry Smith, Kendall Weisger, Philip Colbert, Forrester Washington, Mrs. Ginsberg.

Lawrence Tibbett Hears 2 Atlantans. Lauds Their Voices

Lawrence Tibbett, star baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, in Atlanta Tuesday and Wednesday, gave a special private audition for Eddie Armstrong, prominent Atlanta tenor and soloist, after which the great baritone predicted that the Atlanta singer would go far with continued study. Mr. Armstrong is connected with the Southern Railway.

"He has a beautiful voice," Tibbett said, "and I was pleased to notice a remarkable improvement since I saw Mr. Armstrong four years ago. His tonal qualities are splendid, and he should go far, with his singing if he continues his studies."

Mr. Armstrong, a native of Apalachia, Va., resides at 578 Tenth street, N. W. He is 28 years of age, and is known in Masonic circles for his talent as a singer, being soloist of the Atlanta Masonic temple and a member of the choir of All Saints' Episcopal church.

Tuesday afternoon, in his suite at the Atlanta Biltmore, Tibbett carefully listened to the singing of Lyle D. Van Valkenburg, program director of station WGST, who also is a baritone. Tibbett was enthusiastic over the potential qualities of Mr. Van Valkenburg's voice, and, as in the case of Mr. Armstrong, urged continued study of voice.

Movie Star, Mate Here on Way Home For Yule Holidays

Ann Harding, blonde screen beauty, and her husband, Harry Bannister, also of the films, arrived in Atlanta late Wednesday afternoon en route by air from Miami to Hollywood, where they will play Santa Claus to their four-year-old daughter, Jane.

Tired after a long day of flying, during which they alternated at the controls of their plane, the flying pair went directly from Candler field to their room at the Biltmore.

Miss Harding, quite evidently anxious to be back with her young daughter, revealed that the trip is to be resumed at dawn today, weather permitting, over a route which probably will take them through Birmingham and New Orleans.

The Bannisters left Miami about noon Wednesday and made fast time to Jacksonville, where they paused briefly before hopping for Atlanta.

Miss Harding only recently completed location work near Sarasota for her next picture, after which she and her husband paid a brief visit to Havana, returning to Miami Wednesday morning.

Grace Moore Rumor Is Denied by Tibbett

Upon his arrival in Atlanta Tuesday for a concert, Lawrence Tibbett, operatic baritone, laughed at rumors that he had been engaged to marry Grace Moore, who recently was wedded to a wealthy Argentine. "I have never," he said, emphatically, "been engaged to Miss Moore." Asked at the time whether he contemplated marriage he said positively he did not.

Wednesday Tibbett reiterated his intentions to remain in a state of bachelorhood, referring to a radio talk made Tuesday night in which a Broadway columnist predicted the singer soon would "ankle down the aisle with a beautiful young widow."

EX-CASHER HELD ON THEFT CHARGE

Former Dawson Bank Official Is Arrested at Veterans' Hospital Here.

J. M. McNulty, former cashier of a Dawson (Ga.) bank, was arrested at the Veterans' hospital here Wednesday, and is being held for federal authorities at Macon on a charge of embezzling $20,000 from the bank.

McNulty was away from Dawson for eight months following his leave without notice, it was said. He later returned, however, and made application for treatment in the Veterans' hospital.

The warrant is returnable to the federal division of United States district court, W. A. Boothe, district attorney at Macon, said. The Dawson bank is not a national bank, but is a member of the federal reserve system, it was said.

DEMOCRATS GAIN FIGHT ADVANTAGE

G. O. P. Convention Date May Give Party "Jump" in Drive Offensive.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Encouraged by the brightest prospects for winning the presidency the party has advanced in years, democratic leaders here have started a quiet movement for "getting the jump" on their republican rivals by holding their 1932 national convention in advance of the date set by the republicans.

In fixing June 14 as the date for their national convention, republicans at their meeting here Tuesday, gave the democrats an opportunity to take the offensive.

If the republicans had decided to hold their convention a week earlier, the plan would have been impracticable, since the last of the preferential primaries will not be held until the end of May, and congress, because of the heavy program ahead, is expected to remain in session right up to and perhaps over into June.

As it is, the democrats could hold their convention either the first or the eighth of June without conflicting with the republican date. Present indications strongly point to the democrats going to Chicago.

Should the democrats decide to swing into action first it would mark a departure from their traditional policy. For instance, the practice has been for the party to follow along after the republicans. Particularly has this been true during times when the republicans were in control of national affairs.

Democratic leaders who are urging the change believe it would be the smartest course to pursue. With the party now in control of the lower house of congress and on almost even terms with the republicans in the senate, plus the undisputed outlook for next year's presidential contest, these leaders argue it is the duty of the party to take the offensive in the approaching campaign.

They feel that a strong offensive is the best defense, and to this end the democrats should meet first, launch a vigorous attack on the republicans, nominate a candidate for president, a candidate for vice president and then swing into the open campaign, making the subsequent republican national convention seem like an anti-climax.

Even if the party does get in argument over who should be the publicans are certain to do like this, and the fact that the republican row followed that of the democrats would tend to take the edge off the republican attack.

At least these are some of the things being worked over in the minds of democrats.

Jaycees Elect Dr. Tharpe As Successor to Frank Shaw

Dr. Rayford W. Tharpe, new president of the Junior chamber of commerce, is shown above with the two officers, who will assist him in directing the activities of the Junior chamber for the coming year, George B. Vance, secretary, and Duncan G. Peek, executive vice president, who is on the right.

Dr. Rayford W. Tharpe has been elected president of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce to succeed Frank K. Shaw, it was announced Wednesday. Dr. Tharpe, who was executive vice president, is to be succeeded by Duncan G. Peek.

George B. Vance, secretary, was re-elected for one year. Other officers elected include R. Frank Hill, vice president; James A. Hayes Jr., vice president; Richard J. Reynolds Jr., vice president; and Slater R. Marshall, treasurer.

Donation of Fruits, Candies, Nuts To Assure Bright Holiday for Poor

If Atlantans will continue giving fruits, candies and nuts as they have been doing the last few days, a bright, merry Christmas morning is assured for virtually every poor child in the city, it was said at the city relief center, Wednesday. The center, located in the annex of the city auditorium, was the scene of activity in preparation for the Christmas tree party to be given needy children on Christmas morning.

Lawson Turner, secretary of the center, who originated the idea of a Christmas party for the city's impoverished families, and J. R. Nix, superintendent of the big modern kitchen, which at present is feeding 1,500 children and 3,500 adults every day, both were enthusiastic over the response that has been made by Atlantans for assistance in making Christmas a brighter day for more than a thousand youngsters who otherwise will receive nothing but a "lot of people," Mr. Turner said.

X-Ray Experts Declare Mummy Is Body of Lincoln's Assassin

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN. CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(UP)—Seven distinguished Chicago physicians virtually have decided that a battered mummy, which has been a sideshow freak for 28 years, is the body of John Wilkes Booth, assassin of Abraham Lincoln.

"Our X-ray pictures are conclusive evidence that this body is that of Booth," Dr. O. F. Scott told the United Press tonight. "We shall make formal report in the next few days and I can say safely that we believe."

WOMAN IS INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Mrs. F. M. Griffin, 925 Virginia circle, N. E., was injured early Wednesday night when she was struck by an automobile as she stepped from the street car safety platform in front of Sears, Roebuck and Company on Ponce de Leon avenue. The automobile was driven by Mrs. A. M. Graham, 883 North avenue, N. E., who reported the accident to the police.

WINDS FRUSTRATE WEDELL'S FLIGHT

PUEBLO, Colo., Dec. 16.—(P)—Baffled by head winds encountered in an attempt to set a new west-east transcontinental speed record, J. P. Wedell, New Orleans aviator, gave up his flight after reaching here today at 11:03 a. m., mountain standard time.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE SUPPORTS HOOVER

Secretary Hurley Assails Democrats for Criticism of President's Program.

BY ROBERT S. PICKENS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—With intra-party difficulties amicably adjusted, members of the republican national committee today intent on the reelection of President Hoover.

A short session just before departure did four things: Peacefully allocated delegates to the 1932 convention under the new congressional reapportionment. Fixed June 14 as the date upon which to open the convention in Chicago.

Secretary Hurley vigorously defended the president and attacked the democrats. Appointed a special finance committee to raise funds for the permanent headquarters in Washington.

The committee members rose and cheered Hurley a half-dozen times as he militantly attacked the democrats for "having no program, but only criticism for the splendid one offered by the president."

At a noon reception at the White House, President Hoover congratulated the committee on its "complete harmony."

Deviating from his prepared address, Secretary Hurley asserted that "only brain trust the democrats have had was to try to put this country on a dole."

Rain, Mercury Rise Slated for Today

"Rain and a little warmer," is the official weather forecast for today in Atlanta, according to C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist, as a storm along the Gulf coast is heading toward Atlanta from Texas. The rain is slated to be a light one, he said, but probably will last for several days.

The mercury ranged between 33 and 51 degrees Wednesday and the range today is slated to be between 44 and 55 degrees, said von Herrmann. He asserted that he did not know whether cold weather would follow in the wake of the rain, but that at present there is no cold weather in the northwest.

Atlanta's cold spells usually originate.

TAX COLLECTIONS FOR COUNTY LOW

In general figures Fulton tax collections are approximately $3,000,000 under the amount that is supposed to be paid into the county treasury by Saturday night, it was disclosed at a meeting of the county commissioners Wednesday when W. S. Richardson, tax collector, announced that payments were slow and asked for an extension of time for the collection.

The county has collected approximately $1,400,000 of the taxes due Richardson said, and of this amount almost $1,000,000 has been collected this week. Books close at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and at that time he will be forced to issue it, as, as a penalty.

BANK AT DECATUR WILL PAY DIVIDEND

An unexpected but greatly desired Christmas present will be given the depositors of the Decatur Bank and Trust Company on December 22, Ryburn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National bank, announced Wednesday.

The present is in the form of 10 per cent of the deposits of the institution, which now is in the process of liquidation. A total of $54,350 will be paid to the depositors through the Decatur branch of the Fulton National, Mr. Clay announced.

HUNGARY GRANTED RENEWAL OF CREDIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced today it had renewed its participation in the $20,000,000 credit recently granted to Hungary. Other participants, including the Bank of International Settlements and foreign central banks, have taken similar action.

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 16.—(P)—The Bank for International Settlements renewed tonight for a short period its share in short-term credits to Hungary of about $20,000,000 due December 18.

4 HELD FOR HOLDUP ARE ILLINOIS ESCAPES

Men Arrested at Savannah Identified as Jail Fugitives From Kankakee.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 16.—(P)—Authorities said tonight that four men arrested here in connection with a holdup near Jacksonville, S. C., today had been identified as members of a group who escaped from the Kankakee (Ill.) county jail last Saturday.

The quartet, the authorities said, admitted they faced trial on charges arising from 20 holdups and 150 automobile thefts, and gave their names as Frank Laurin, 22, alias Fred Borden; Thomas Man, 24, alias Tom Reed; Walter Wulf, 25, alias Francis Fordyce; Leslie Wakat, 22, alias Jimmie Wellington.

Chatham county police arrested the four in an automobile on the Coastal highway north of here shortly after word was received of the robbery of Arthur H. Taylor, Lynn (Miss.) motorist, of $100 in cash and checks.

Taylor was left bound to a tree near Jacksonville. The police said two guns were found on the young men when their car was halted. Both weapons were defective, however, and were not loaded.

SHERIFF GOES ON TRIAL AS RUM-RUNNERS' AND Vivid Story of Liquor Smuggling on Georgia Coast Told by Witness.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 16.—A vivid story of wholesale liquor traffic between the Bahamas and the south Georgia coast, under the protection of a sheriff who was to receive a dollar per case for all liquor safely landed, was told by Fred M. Walton, confessed liquor dealer, when he was placed on the stand as star witness for the government against Sheriff G. B. Smith, of Camden county, on trial in federal court here today on a charge of conspiracy and violation of the federal prohibition act.

Sheriff Smith was indicted in Savannah, by a federal grand jury, some weeks ago, along with Earl Shelton and Lester Haggard, the indictment being based primarily on testimony made before the grand jury by Fred M. Walton, who confessed to his part in the liquor operations and made an alleged "clean breast" of the whole affair.

Grudge Charged.

The sheriff, represented by Blalock & Blalock, of Waycross, set up as his defense that his prosecution is a result of spite and grudge work on the part of notorious bootleggers and liquor dealers of Camden county who want to "get him out of the way," so they can continue their lucrative trade.

The defense contends that Sheriff Smith has actually prosecuted a number of the government's witnesses, on liquor charges, and that their testimony in the case is purely a case of disgruntled bunch seeking to get even.

The state swore approximately 30 witnesses. The first witness for the government was Walton, who told the jury that he was living in St. Augustine when he went into the liquor business in June, 1931, with Lester Haggard. He previously had lived in Jacksonville and now is a resident of Miami, he said.

Walton claims to have been approached by Haggard with regard to their liquor alliance who told him, he said, in St. Augustine, that he (Haggard) had arranged for a good place in Georgia to get it in.

The two, Walton testified, proceeded to Woodbine, Ga., in Camden county, where they discussed the matter with Sheriff Smith, agreeing to pay the sheriff $1 per case for all liquor they landed on the shores of Camden county under his protection.

Walton and Haggard proceeded to West Palm Beach, and from there to West End, Bahamas, where they bought a cargo of liquor and started it on its journey to the south Georgia coast, the witness said. They met the boat which in Camden county, unloaded the 350 cases furnished by Sheriff Smith, Walton said.

The liquor was stored in a vacant house, and later moved to the home of Isaac Simmons, in the process of which the liquor, or a large part of it, was stolen, according to Walton.

Three weeks later, Walton testified, another cargo was landed, being loaded on trucks and delivered into the custody of Earl Shelton, alias Gordon Dover, who was to transport the illicit goods to some point in Illinois. The liquor, early next morning, was captured by Sheriff Smith and a private citizen, and the cargo was carried to the Camden county jail, after the drivers of the trucks had escaped.

Walton testified that the sheriff's capture of the liquor, that he was forced to make the seizure because it had been reported to him by private citizens, but that it would be returned.

Some Returned.

The witness further testified that 70 cases of the whisky was actually returned, and that part of the cargo destroyed by government agents. "I don't know what happened to the rest of it," he said.

Asked by the district attorney if any money actually was paid to Sheriff Smith, Walton swore that more than $300 was paid him for the first cargo, in two payments. The $370 was paid him for the last cargo, $50 of the last amount being for the caretaker at the docks where the boat was landed.

Walton also testified that the trucks were later delivered back into the hands of the liquor interests for the sum of $200, the delivery being made by the sheriff.

In the selection of a jury this morning, the defense requested that all jurors be questioned as to membership in any organization interested directly in prohibition enforcement, and this and other questions propounded by Judge William S. Barrett, being not for the purpose of disqualification but to guide the defense in exercising their strikes in the selection of a jury.

Brenau Girls, Eager for Home Surroundings, Travel by Plane for Christmas Holidays

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Dec. 16.—Over 500 Brenau girls will leave Gainesville today for their homes for the Christmas holidays. Four of the young women selected the quickest mode of transportation, they went by airplane. Miss Louise Allen, of Nashville (left above), said that she would land almost in her own home yard in Nashville, while Miss Harriett Lamme (right) will land in Newark, N. J., and go to her home in Maplewood, N. J., rejoicing in the fact that she will save almost an entire day. Miss Eulale Matthews (second from left) will land at Jackson, Miss., and Miss Margaret Watkins (in cabin) at Glasgow, Ky. They go by the American Airways and the Eastern Transport, Inc. G. W. Sholar, local Airway agent, handled the tickets for them and it is shown above. He announced also that three Riverside cadets left by air Wednesday. They went to Shreveport, La.; Miami, Fla.; and Dallas, Texas. Photo by White.

WASHINGTON COUNTY PRODUCE SURVEY DATA

TENILLE, Ga., Dec. 16.—County Agent W. T. Middlebrooks, who has been gathering statistics for the "retailer to consumers" survey to determine the amount of produce raised and sold here, or purchased elsewhere, has completed the work.

It was found that in Washington county $332,673 worth of agricultural products that could have been produced on the farms in the county were sold by retailers to consumers. Of this amount $256,224 came from outside the state, and only $76,449 was supplied by local farmers and from within the state. These figures do not include value of items raised on farms for home use. The value of surplus shipped from the county amount to $153,800.

The following items sold by retailers throughout the county were practically all furnished by local farmers: Hay, oats, corn, soy beans, velvet beans, peas, sweet potatoes, rye, melons, eggs, pork, beef. The items supplied from outside the state were: Horse and mule feed, hog and poultry feed, sorghum seed, Irish potatoes, dried beans, flour, canned fruit and vegetables, cured meat, lard and canned meat.

ALLEGED BURGLAR FOUND NOT GUILTY

AMERICUS, Ga., Dec. 16.—(P)—H. H. Williams, Cobb, Ga., resident, was found not guilty today by a Sumter superior court jury of charges of burglary.

Williams' trial started yesterday and the jury received the case late at night. Williams was jointly indicted with his son, James H. Williams, and Robert Clarke. They were charged with burglarizing the Americus Grocery Company. Clarke confessed and was sentenced to one year on the roads. Young Williams was convicted and given a year's sentence.

Two additional indictments have been made against the three men, it being charged that the wholesale company's warehouse was entered three times and goods stolen.

Willie Lou Waites, negro, was acquitted of murder charges in connection with the death of Lonnie Williams, negro.

U. S. Acceptance of Silver Bullion On Foreign Debts Urged by Haden

MACON, Ga., Dec. 16.—(P)—Charles J. Haden, Atlanta, retired lawyer and capitalist, today advocated, in an address to the Macon Kiwanis Club, a more harmonious feeling between two political parties, and acceptance of silver bullion in payment for foreign debt, as a means to a more rapid recovery from a "gripping" depression.

Under Mr. Haden's theory, the silver bullion would be coined, floating an additional "very large amount" of the present issue of silver certificates. Such action, he said, will forestall an impending crisis.

His subject centered around the present plight of the country's railroads.

"If this country has to go through a series of railroad receiverships," he said, "recovery will be retarded at least five years. Railroads in Georgia pay about one-third the state's taxes, and if they can't pay taxes, the schools will have to close."

Mr. Haden cited one railroad in the state, an official of which told him several days ago that he had to ask permission of the public service commission to borrow $1,300,000 to pay taxes.

Mr. Haden deplored the fact, he said, that "what seems to be everybody's business is nobody's business." He discussed the lack of laws which would regulate truck and bus traffic in the state and nation, allowing competition which the railroads can not meet.

"Just one example came to me a few days ago," he said. "Cotton is being hauled by truck from Dallas, Texas, to Gadsden, Ala., for 40 cents the hundred pounds.

LEGION HEAD URGES HELP FOR JOBLESS

Major Objectives of Veterans' Body Outlined by Commander.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 16.—(AP) Henry L. Stevens Jr., national commander of the American Legion, told Tennessee Legion post officials in conference here tonight that the major objectives of the Legion for 1932 are service to the disabled, protection and aid for widows and orphans of World War soldiers, promotion of employment, proper national defense and advancement of world peace.

"We have heard a great deal lately about economy," Mr. Stevens said. "This year, as never before, I am afraid it is being misconstrued into false economy in the matter of national defense. It is our duty to insist and demand that the government of the United States not jeopardize the great material wealth of this magnificent land by our failure to provide adequate national defense."

With regard to employment in a radio address here early tonight, Mr. Stevens said:

"We believe if we are to aid effectively our comrades who have been struck down helpless through enforced idleness, we must extend the Legion influence to aid all unemployed. We know the way to cure unemployment is to create jobs, and the Legion is successfully advancing needed public works, highways, buildings and other projects which will supply the largest number of jobs for the benefit of the greatest number of people."

LANGSTON HUGHES LECTURES HERE

James Langston Hughes, the negro poet, appeared before the student body of Spelman University yesterday morning and read from his published works, "The Weary Blues" and "Fine Clothes to the Jew," as well as a number of his verses published in magazines and not yet collected. Nearly all the selections were in free verse and all dealt with the daily life and experiences of his race and were characterized by a sincerity of feeling and a simplicity of craftsmanship which rendered them very impressive and even poignant.

The author has drawn largely from his experiences as a ship's carpenter on vessels cruising along the African coast and in other vagabonding adventures in Mexico for poetic material, but this is always dealt with from the viewpoint of the negro and the manual worker and kept in a realistic and uncomplex vein.

The remarks of the reader about the origin of his material and his ideal of craftsmanship were fully as interesting as the verse itself, indicating as they did that Hughes has a well thought-out and definite goal in his writing—that of presenting the universal problems of his race, their aspirations, their distresses and their uncomplex joys in a language which is understandable and moving.

Hughes called attention to the debt of modern poetry to Carl Sandburg and Walt Whitman; he urged the use of genuine meter and rhythm such as are to be found in the music of primitive races (but not cooked-up Harlem "jazz") and the need of the negro artist, whether writer or musician, to find and to be himself.

Prior to the reading, a group of Spelman students sang a beautiful choral number. It was announced that Hughes will speak before the student body of Morehouse University Thursday night, his program to include a reading of some of his poems and an invitation was extended to all interested to be present.

BENJAMIN BOLTON DIES AT RESIDENCE

Benjamin Franklin Bolton, 62 years old, died suddenly early Wednesday at his home, 401 Augusta avenue. He was a traveling agent for the Atlanta Journal, supervising the distribution of the paper in northern and central Georgia. His death was due to a heart attack.

The body was sent to Orrville, Ala., near Selma, where the funeral will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Bolton was a native of Alabama but had resided in Atlanta for many years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Ruby Blount, of Orrville, whom he married 25 years ago.

METHODIST LADIES TO SERVE LUNCHEON

The ladies of Circles 4 and 5 of the Inman Park Methodist church will serve luncheon Thursday in the club room of Sturche's store, 116-120 Whitehall street, S. W.

Mrs. G. W. Butler and Mrs. W. A. Fincher will be the official hostesses. The menu will consist of roast pork, turnips, candied yams, cold slaw, muffins, rolls, pie and coffee. A charge of 25 cents a plate will be made.

24 BAR APPLICANTS GIVEN EXAMINATION

The new criminal courtroom, just completed on the ninth floor of the courthouse, was used for the first time Wednesday when a bar examination for 24 applicants was conducted there under the direction of Tillou Von Nunes, appointed judge pro hac vice for the occasion.

Among the 24 candidates were two negroes, one of them Ben J. Davis Jr., son of the republican leader, whose application for examination stated that he has had three years at Harvard. Other applicants included S. T. Allen, former deputy clerk of superior court, and Norman DeCrassner, who as a taxpayer at one time sought to enjoin Mayor James L. Key from leaving the city for speaking engagements.

The examination questions were compiled by the state board of bar examiners, of which John M. Slaton is chairman and Joseph A. Cronk, of Savannah, is secretary. Emmett Quinn acted as sheriff during the examination Wednesday.

TWO YOUNG MECHANICS HALT THEFT OF AUTO

Spectacular action of two young automobile mechanics Wednesday prevented the theft of an automobile which had been taken by force from Mrs. Lee Jones, of Brown's Mill road, the owner. Mrs. Jones was alighting at Trinity avenue and Forsyth street when a negro brushed her aside and, while the motor still was running, entered the car and drove away.

Anell McMichen, son of a city policeman, and W. A. Puckett, both of whom worked at a nearby garage, sprang onto the rear tire racks of the car and as it sped away, McMichen climbed over the top, succeeded in entering the machine, frightening the negro away. He escaped. Mrs. Jones' hand was slightly hurt when the negro closed the door after seizing the car.

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 17, 1931.

A GOOD WAY OUT.

The steadily increasing strength of the support in congress of a prohibition referendum seems to offer a solution by which this perplexing question may be removed as a disturbing issue in the approaching national campaign.

It has no place in a political campaign, but unless it is in some way disposed of it is certain to becloud the consideration of other issues vitally important to the welfare of the country.

A referendum is democratic and it would answer one and for all one of the chief arguments against the present prohibition status—that the eighteenth amendment was never submitted to the voters and that it does not, therefore, reflect the will of the people.

The amendment was enacted first by congress and ratified later by the legislatures of a requisite number of states at a time when we were still gripped by the hysterical influence of the World War and when calm consideration of any issue on its merits was well-nigh impossible.

A member of congress in voting in favor of this referendum would in nowise sacrifice his personal conviction on prohibition. All he would do would be to put the settlement of the question up to the people, in which expression he, as an individual, could participate as he desired.

The realization that even the most intense dry can support such a referendum with a clear conscience, and the desire to remove prohibition as a disturbing element in next year's general election, is responsible for the rapid increase in the number of congressmen who have made known their approval of the proposal to let the people decide for themselves what they want to do about prohibition.

If a referendum is authorized and the present laws are approved one of the worst stumbling blocks to enforcement will have been removed.

On the other hand, if the existing laws are not approved at such a referendum, the way will be made easier to arrive at an enforceable plan of dealing with this question, under which the saloon would be barred in both wet and dry states.

The growing sentiment in favor of a referendum is a hopeful sign of an early adjustment of this troublesome question.

FOR BETTER LEGISLATURES.

In his Christmas greeting, State Government, the official organ of the American Legislators' Association, promises that its Christmas tree will not come down on Twelfth Night, but will remain erect, topped with a crowning, glittering, snowy star—emblem of hope for legislatures better manned and more efficiently organized," continuing with the following message to the capable and conscientious legislators of the country:

To those lawmakers who are assuming their share of the responsibility for the improvement of the legislative processes of this country, State Government carols a time-honored reborn. Buried by bills, buffeted by lobbyists, the butt of cartoonist, columnist, and private citizen's God rest you, Merry Gentlemen. Let nothing you dismay!

No greater boon could come to every state in the Union than to be able this Christmas to pluck from State Government's tree a "better manned and more efficiently organized

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Bulgarian Wisdom.
What do the peoples know of each other? What do Americans know about Bulgarians or vice versa? Let us learn something at least about and from Bulgarian proverbs and adages, just published in a collection by a scientist who has spent years in the Balkans. There is great wisdom in the saying: "Man's only friend is the earth." And there is great poetry in this Bulgarian expression: "Only the nightingale understands the language of the roses."

Bulgarians honor manual labor when they say: "God gives us what, but he does not carry it to us into our hands." "Five fingers, who can work, conquer everything" is another saying among those southeast Europeans. The old Bulgarian proverb says: "Pray (pray and work), the Bulgarians translate this way: "The vineyard needs prayer as well as the pick-axe." There is sound common sense and good advice in the saying: "With complaining and kazenjanje one is apt to go to bed hungry."

THE REPUBLICAN CAT FIGHT.

The issues confronting this congress are held by the Baltimore Sun to be more serious in their effect upon the welfare of the country than any which have been faced by a congress during the past two decades.

This outstanding independent newspaper succinctly lists the task ahead of the national law-makers as follows:

On the one hand are questions of the gravest concern about the nation's trade and commerce, seriously disturbed in the past two years by mistaken policies as to the tariff and our foreign debts. There are questions of equally grave concern about the nation's fiscal affairs, now in a sad state of dislocation as a result of the adverse flow of business current. There are questions of extreme importance concerning our banking and our transportation structures, which seem to be in need of overhauling in order that they may better serve the needs of a commerce and industry struggling back to normal. And finally there are questions concerning the Philippines, concerning naval policy and agriculture which threaten to assume such proportions in the next six months as to require some consideration on the hands of the national legislature.

Frankly dubious that the proper attention will be given to the handling of these issues, because of the presidential election next year, the Sun expresses the hope that "selfish partisan ambitions" will be subordinated to the "plain requirements of intelligent statesmanship." And yet while such utterances as this are coming from independent newspapers in all sections of the country and while the democrats in congress are ready to proceed to the consideration of the work ahead, the republicans in both houses are indulging in a family cat and dog fight.

While the row-over the selection of a president pro tempore has not so far resulted in blocking other work by the senate, the bitterness involved in the contest for an office of such little consequence gives rise to the fear that the republican schism in the senate is so deep as to constitute a threat to serious and unbiased discussion of important legislation when it comes up for consideration, while in the house republicans are engaged in bitterly denouncing the president's policies.

The democrats have indicated their full intention to put patriotism above partisan politics in the present critical condition of the nation's affairs, and the republicans should likewise realize that this is no time to indulge in inter-party controversies on the floor of congress.

NOW FRANCE BUILDS A WALL.

Legislative stone-masons the world over are earnestly carrying on with their labors of retributive tariff wall building, with scarcely a month passing that does not see plans announced for a structure to tower over the supposed protective bulwarks of the ill-omened Hawley-Smoot act.

The late summer and fall saw Italy, Great Britain and several of the central European nations either building new walls or adding to those already in existence.

Now France comes into the picture with the announcement of her ministry that better protection will be needed than that now afforded by the 15 per cent super-duties, and with the prolonged discussion by the chamber of deputies of higher tariffs of various kinds.

With the heightening of every foreign tariff wall, the United States finds itself increasingly at disadvantage in the matter of our foreign trade. We stand to lose far more from the loss of our dominance in world trade than we gain by shutting the world from our markets.

When the weather bureau reported that "the weather has gone on a rampage all over the United States" it evidently overlooked Atlanta.

Even in these days of unemployment there are some jobs that would not have an over-plus of applicants—such as warden at Leavenworth, for instance.

Old Man Depression is going to get another stiff solar plexus blow when those six millions in dividends are turned a-loose in the Atlanta area.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 16.—It is understood that Ruth Chatterton has bought the American rights to the British stage play, "The Sign of the Cross," and intends to produce it with Ralph Forbes in the lead.

This should be good news to Ralph Forbes, whose motion picture efforts didn't exactly "jell."

Remember when John Galworthy said he would never consent to the filming of "The Apple Tree"? At least he has changed his mind.

Well, he has at last concluded arrangements to have that story made in gelatin, provided that it is screened in England and directed by Frank Tuttle, who interviewed him on the subject last year when he was abroad.

If it is at all possible to transfer one of the best of the Cooper and "Apple Tree" to the films, here's a picture worth waiting for.

(You've guessed it—this has been my favorite story for a long, long time.)

Anyone looking for Herbert Brenon

these days will find him in the kitchen of his Malibu home supervising the mixing and steaming of that plum pudding for which he has been famous among his friends for years.

A Christmas pudding topped with a sprig of holly is the director's way of saying, "Merry Christmas." And, I might add, a very popular way.

Irving Pichel is the latest actor to join the ranks of director as well. He not only plays a featured part in "State's Attorney," the John Barrymore film that is now before you, but he directs the dialogue in the production.

King Vidor directs the picture as a whole.

What do you make out of this? I found it in a local newspaper: "The scamp of 'The Champ'—Skipper Skippy."

A good line to try out on your friends on New Year's eve. If they can say it twice quickly, they're all right.

THE HAZARDS OF TONSILLECTOMY.

March 13, 1930, I had my tonsils removed, writes a victim of the old Spanish custom. At the time of the operation I had two hemorrhages. After the operation instead of feeling better, I felt worse and when I went back to the doctor who removed my tonsils he said it was simply my nerves and mental condition. Finally, about six weeks later, I developed a great deal of pain in my right chest and I went to another doctor, who found I had abscess in the right lung and there was a cavity. I received various kinds of treatment for several months, but did not improve. I had a pretty constant temperature (of a few degrees), and coughed up considerable phlegm. One morning the abscess broke, as it seemed to me, and I coughed up pus for several hours continuously. . . . I am still taking treatment. . . . whether you think this abscess will dry up of itself, or whether I should go to Arizona. . . . lost 30 pounds. . . .

Ordinarily I would not publish such a letter. But my motive in doing so is a good one. I believe it is only fair to let the public know that there is a hazard in having the tonsils removed in the old-fashioned way, that is, by guillotine and snare, or by dissection. . . . whether the operation is done under a general anesthetic or a local anesthetic. Abscess of the lung is one of the hazards of tonsillectomy, even if it happens in only one case out of a thousand. . . .

Hemorrhage is another hazard of this major operation which some doctors do with little compunction and some patients undergo without proper preparation or realization of the chances they are taking. . . . Where a general anesthetic is employed, there are other hazards which we will not dwell on now. . . .

When these unfortunate "complications" occur, then one wonders if the doctor who advised or performed the operation is entirely justified. . . . years ago I believed a good doctor was justified in urging or doing surgical tonsillectomy in many cases, and the results were good. . . . I knew nothing about diathermy extirpation of the tonsils then, if indeed anybody had developed a satisfactory method at that time. Today I believe a good doctor is not justified in subjecting a patient to the hazards of old-fashioned tonsillectomy unless, unless for some exceptional reason the diathermy method is not available. . . . I am sure I would not undergo surgical tonsillectomy, with general or local anesthetic, myself, and I know I choose diathermy as the most effective method for a member of my own family. . . . SEABURY ACCUSED AS ROOSEVELT FOE

Hofstadter Counsel Accused of Seeking Presidential Honors.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—An attempt to embarrass Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was charged today to Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee, by State Senator John J. Dunnigan, who said Seabury sought to further his own ambition to become the democratic presidential nominee.

The senator is the democratic leader of the upper house of the legislature. He was one of the minority leaders of the inquiry, and often has been regarded as a spokesman for Tammany Hall.

Seabury is an independent democrat and is known as a foe of Tammany. Dunnigan said Seabury already had launched his campaign for the nomination, but had "over-reached himself" by his persistent efforts to put the governor "in the hole" with a demand for action against Tammany officials investigated by the board.

The senator's statement follows in part: "I cannot account for Judge Seabury's action, except as a willful and malicious device to embarrass the governor and to play the old republican trick of putting him in a hole. In his desperation he has over-reached himself and has over-reached himself."

Seabury is an independent democrat and is known as a foe of Tammany. Dunnigan said Seabury already had launched his campaign for the nomination, but had "over-reached himself" by his persistent efforts to put the governor "in the hole" with a demand for action against Tammany officials investigated by the board.

Seabury was out of the city and his aides refused to discuss the statement. As they continued to press the inquiry, police and bank accounts.

At the conclusion of the last public hearing the committee counsel said virtually all the city department heads employes with huge bank accounts for which they can give no explanation. He promised to call many of them at future hearings.

The document to which Senator Dunnigan referred are records of the committee's investigation of the affairs of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, City of Perry and others.

Although Seabury had said he would consent to the proper authorities having power of removal or prosecution, the records have not yet been sent to Albany.

It Is Always the Loser Who Decides Whether a Defeat Is Final

By Robert Quillen

The present heavyweight champion of the world won his title by outlasting men who seemed superior.

In the two fights that brought him the championship, he was so outclassed and outpointed in the opening rounds that defeat seemed certain; yet in each instance he stubbornly refused to give ground, took his punishment without flinching, and hammered away at midlife and torso until his man was whipped.

That kind of fighting man inspires few lyrics, in the ring or elsewhere, but he finishes the thing he sets out to do, and only death can defeat him.

The world is full of men who can fight hard and well for a day or an hour. They are sprinters, who expend the whole of their energy and courage in one supreme effort. They win at one stroke, or lose.

They lose to dogged men who never are whipped because they never cry quits.

The sprinters had their day when all was gambling. They were easy winners. They even took losses cheerfully, for each tomorrow promised new and easy gains.

The victories now in the making will be won by the other kind of men—the sticklers who set their teeth and hang on.

There is no way to defeat men who won't acknowledge defeat. In America's first two wars, and again in the fourth, untrained troops went into battle cheering, stopped in their tracks when they met resistance, and took to their heels without striking a blow. Yet these same men, seasoned and taught to stand fast, later proved themselves unbeatable.

Battles seldom are lost by exhausted men. They are lost by quitters. Every great battle in history might have had a different ending if the losers had stood their ground and said: "Here we win or die."

The losers do not die. They endure their fill of punishment and then escape with a whole skin. Assailing troops carry a position because defending troops desert it.

No man knows how much he can endure. Not one in a thousand ever has done his utmost—used the last measure of his strength for one final blow—stood fast under punishment until he dropped.

There is no defeat for the man who won't quit, for men and fates that oppose him grow weary of a fight that can't be won.

SALES OF SHORTS BUDGET DEFERRED

Publication of Figures Special Meeting Friday Fails to Check Decline To Take Up Department In Market. Finances, Salaries.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The New York Stock Exchange today published a complete tabulation of the short interest in listed stocks over several weeks.

Despite intense interest in the figures in Wall Street, brokers said it was doubtful if their publication had any effect upon the stock market. The market opened with a brief rally, but was inclined to sag during most of the session.

The latest data for which the figures were published, for November 30, showed a total short interest of 7,745,642 shares. This is an increase of more than 1,500,000 shares over the low point in the tabulation, which was October 9, at which time the short interest amounted to 2,163,771 shares.

The high point shown is for May 25, when the tabulation starts, at which time the short interest was 5,589,700 shares.

The defenders of short selling point out that this short interest contrasts with a total of approximately 1,200,000,000 shares listed for trading, and that short sales in day-to-day trading have amounted to only a small fraction of the total tabulation.

Nevertheless, the controversy rages. Opponents of short selling assert that it may be the straw that breaks the market's back, pointing to the increase during October and November. The small as the daily gains appeared to be. It is taken for granted that the matter will be thoroughly thrashed out in a congressional investigation, and both sides are eagerly poring over the ammunition provided by the statistics.

Exchange officials believe the ammunition in the figures is all for their side. Opponents doubt it.

The largest changes in the short account shown were decreases, when shorts rushed to cover and gave the market an upward sweep. The early in October caused a reduction of 424,098 shares in the short interest in a single day. The violent rebound in the market early in June was accompanied by a drop of 641,410 shares in the short account in one day.

The largest short interest shown in any issue as of November 30 was in American Telephone & Telegraph, which accounted for 1,401,304 shares, of a total capitalization of 43,900,000 shares. In United States Steel, the short interest was 1,282,387, from a capitalization of 8,703,252 shares. In American Telephone, it was 1,602,102 shares, out of 18,581,153 shares.

Highlights of the short interest follow: The total number of issues in which a short interest was reported November 30 was 556. This compares with 610 on May 25, a reduction of 54, or 8.7 per cent.

2. The market value of the total short interest on September 18, the latest week for which figures are available, was $186,693,800. This compares with $249,538,200 on May 25, a reduction of $62,844,400, or 25.3 per cent.

3. The per cent of short sales covered the same day in relation to total sales was 7.27 per cent on November 30, compared with 1.79 per cent on September 18, when the first figures of this calculation were compiled for use in the report.

4. The record since September 26 shows that the percentage of short sales covered to total sales for the same day increased from 1.79 on September 26 to 8.10 per cent on September 28 and to 8.10 per cent on October 7. After that date it declined to 2.47 per cent on October 17, from which level it rose to 8.18 per cent on October 28 and to 7.27 per cent on November 30.

Following is a list of stocks in which the short interest has been particularly active, showing the total shares listed on September 18, last, and the change in short interest

Slim Clues Followed After Assistant Prosecutor Is Found Slain.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Joseph E. Graves, assistant district attorney, was found dead in a parked motor car here last night. His body was battered and mutilated.

Police said they were investigating possibilities that he had been slain by gangsters, killed in a motor car accident or injured fatally in a drunken fight.

Glen O. DePuy, who said he had been Graves' companion of the evening, Frank W. Allen, a friend, and Allen's wife were questioned.

The body was found in the car at Allen's home several hours after an unidentified man had appeared at the

A hotel bell boy said the unidentified visitor's car seemed to have been in an accident and that one of his passengers slumped in a corner. Police sought the stranger.

St. Philip's Choir To Sing at Davison's

Forty-one singers between 8 and 17 in the junior choir of St. Philip's cathedral church school will sing Christmas carols every evening at 7 o'clock, beginning Thursday, and continuing through Monday, from the mezzanine floor of the Davison-Paxon Company's department store. The program will last half an hour. The choir sings every Sunday at the cathedral, and will render Christmas music at the communion service at 10:30 o'clock Christmas morning. Mrs. Elizabeth Abbott Taylor, the organist, will be in charge of the program. The junior choir was organized in 1924 by Miss Grace Chalmers Thompson, now of New York, and then choir director of the cathedral.

PENNY CLUB DAY BY DAY BY MRS. THOS. K. GLENN

Lawrence Tibbett is to many just another actor—an actor who charms his audiences on the screen at the Fox theater this week—to some he is a former Metropolitan Opera star who is singing here each year in concert and charming the audience with his marvelous voice—but yesterday he revealed himself simply as a man who loves his fellowman. When I asked him at the Baltimore if he would care to join the Atlanta Penny Club and give 450 pennies to help Atlanta's unemployed he said most graciously, "I am a member of the Penny Club in Houston, Texas, and was delighted to join in an undertaking that asks for so little that every one can experience the joy of giving. I was told in Houston that the Penny Club was originated in Atlanta and I will be delighted to become a member of the original Penny Club. You know I think that this method of raising money affords the public the most satisfactory means of giving that I have ever heard of." My heart filled with pride as Mr. Tibbett said these things about our Penny Club and I went away feeling that his 450 pennies would bring much joy to the men that they would help provide work for.

Don't leave your pennies in your pockets when they can help provide jobs for the unemployed—3 cents a day—21 cents a week—90 cents a month—is all that the Penny Club is asking.

HIGH COURT BACKS CAMPBELL MERGER

In a brief opinion holding that there "is no merit in any of the constitutional attacks upon the merger plan," the Georgia supreme court Wednesday ratified the merger of Fulton and Campbell counties.

Clarence Hines, Atlanta hotel operator, brought the suit against Commissioner Paul Etheridge and other members of the commission. He alleged that the law was unconstitutional in that it abolished a number of offices.

Lawrence Camp, a former Campbell county member of the general assembly, defended the action.

M'ELREATH SPEAKER AT JACKSON FRIDAY

Walter McElreath, prominent Atlanta attorney, will be principal speaker at 5:30 o'clock Friday evening at Charles L. Redman's Bible class at Jackson (Ga.) First Methodist church. This is one of the most enthusiastic men's classes in middle Georgia and an overflow attendance is anticipated. T. Walter Moore, one of Butts county's most prominent planters, is in charge of arrangements. Several out-of-town visitors have been invited to hear Mr. McElreath.

The New Competition

EVENTS of the past several years have proven that a new form of competition exists. It is the competition of rapid change, which will defeat all who do not meet it aggressively and with courage.

This condition affects every business . . . and supplies every business with an opportunity.

Those who think ahead, keep their goods fresh, and in tune with rapidly changing demand, are those who will make the most progress during the next few years.

We recognize that this changing condition calls for close banking cooperation and we are ready to render such cooperation, with an organization that is complete, and keyed to modern conditions.

Communists Seek Completion of Plan Year Ahead of Schedule.

MOSCOW, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Utmost development of key industries, primarily the fuel, metal and machinery industries, with a view to completing the five-year plan in four years, was urged for next year by the central committee of the communist party today.

The committee instructed the council of peoples commissars, in drafting control figures for the entire national economy in 1932, to base them upon that intention, in order to complete the five-year plan by the end of 1932, which will be the fourth year.

As a consequence, capital investments for the entire national economy next year will be 21,000,000,000 rubles (about $10,500,000,000) against 16,000,000,000 in 1931. Investments in industry will be 10,700,000,000 rubles,

'Cupboard Baby,' Growing Healthy, Attends Parents' Cruelty Trial

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A 12-year-old girl, attired in a neat green dress, walked into District of Columbia supreme court today and gazed about curiously as scores of eyes were focused on her.

She was Edith Riley. Her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Riley, were on trial on a charge of cruelty to the child. The government contended they had kept her confined in a dark closet for three or four years.

Edith, her black bodied hair neatly combed and looking plump and healthy, was led to a chair facing Justice Letts. She sat comfortably, with one leg tucked under her, while Dr. Isidore Rodd, of Gallinger hospital, as compared with 8,200,000,000 this year.

New capital in the socialist development of agriculture will be 4,300,000,000 rubles, and for railways, waterways and airways, 3,300,000,000, as against 3,600,000,000 and 2,720,000,000 in 1931.

The industrial output is to be advanced 28 per cent as compared with an increase of 21 per cent this year.

testified as to her physical improvement since she was taken from her parents six weeks ago.

Seated only a few seats from her father and stepmother, the child did not tention than others in the crowded courtroom. Her father looked at her for a while while Mrs. Riley glanced at her once or twice.

Dr. Rodd said Edith weighed only 38 pounds, due to malnutrition, when taken to the hospital. Now, he added, she weighs 57 pounds.

The physician said Edith can walk unassisted now, is much brighter than six weeks ago, liked to play with toys and other children and laughs and sings.

When she came to the hospital, he added, she merely looked straight ahead with a blank expression.

Earlier, H. R. Stephenson, attorney for the Rileys, said he would show that the child was delinquent. Dr. Rodd said he had no evidence of this. Stephenson also said Mrs. Riley was "not mentally responsible."

"49 Years of Underselling Atlanta"

Tibbett, in Crowd-Pleasing Role, Applauded to Echo by Huge Throng

When an artist pre-eminent in the field of grand opera offers a program of popular songs, one is interested in advance. Lawrence Tibbett, star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, appeared in a concert of popular and favorite songs Wednesday night at the City Auditorium. He was encoresd time after time and at the end of the contrasts being suited to his voice and to the clamor of the audience. Many well-known and popular songs were included in his concert. They were familiar to most of the audience, but Tibbett interpreted them as all good interpretations should be—conveying to the hearers a quickening sense of discovery, of finding bright new elements in already familiar beauty.

Lives Song As It Is Sung.
The singer has a baritone voice of great power, and the man has the art of projecting his personality across the footlights. He enjoys singing simple tunes, with rhythm and melody, and he lives the song as he sings it.

His control of his voice, learned in operatic fields, makes ordinary singers of popular music seem absurd. His technique is wonderful. He seems to have been born with a "flair" for the dramatic and in interpreting a feeling of hardness or of strength, he particularly excels.

As the singer strode on the stage at the start, he was given a polite round of applause. As he left it, women and men were being put off the platform by stage hands and ushers. He scored a smashing hit. For one encore, Tibbett sang the prolog to "Eugene Oni," the piece in which he made his first great conquest of Atlanta several years ago.

Theater Programs

Pictures and Stage Shows

FOX—"Cuban Love Song," with Lawrence Tibbett, Lope Velez, etc. Newsreel and short subjects. Barlowe conducting Fox Concert orchestra. Al Evans at organ. On stage, Fanchon and Marco's "Five Races." Met.

GEORGIA—"Corral," with Chester Morris, Allison Loyd, etc. Newsreel and short subjects. Vincent Key conducting Georgianians. On stage, EKO vaudeville.

First-Run Pictures
CAPITOL—"Lace of the Rio Grande," with John Mack Brown, Dorothy Burgess, etc. Newsreels and short subjects.

Second-Run Pictures
ALAMO—"Great Meadow." GRAND—"Bad Girl."

Neighborhood Theaters
BUCKHEAD—"Politics," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.
DEKALB—"Swing," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.
MADISON—"Ladies' Man," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.
PALACE—"Man From Death Valley," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.
POINTE DE LEOX—"New Moon," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.
TENTH ST.—"The Public Defender," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.
WEST END—"Son of India," at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30, 7:45, 9:25.

He sang it with the brilliance and color which characterized the entire program.

"Edward" Applauded.
Perhaps, though it's hard to say definitely, his rendition of "Edward," an old English poem set to music by Carl Loewe, drew the most applause from the audience. And as an encore to this he sang "Shortening Bread," a lovely, lilting negro song, by Jack Wolfe. It is a simple little piece, often sung by mothers as a lullaby. It captivated Atlantans, and in the interpretation of Tibbett, became almost a classic.

Tibbett emphasizes each note exactly as it should be emphasized. Each note has the proper intonation; from the haunting notes of "The Cuban Love Song" to the bitterness of "Edward," as he calls the wrath of hell to descend upon his mother.

Singers trained to meet the demands of opera often let their tones spread and develop a tremble so extensive as to leave some doubt in the mind of the hearer as to the precise note being sung. But never Tibbett. His diction and phrasing as he sings are always good. He has a certain style, and one that is Tibbett's alone, but he is able to adapt it with ease, so swiftly that the average audience gives it never a thought. There is the artist in the man who can sing at one moment "Jardin d'Amour," and in almost the next breath sing "The Glory Road" or "Without a Song."

Tibbett learned much. The huge crowd which greeted this Tibbett was not the same crowd which applauded Lawrence Tibbett as the Toredor in "Carmen" on his initial appearance here. And it wasn't the same Tibbett, either. He has learned much since entering the sound picture.

Tibbett began his program with "Preach Not Me Your Master Rules." He was restrained, and his voice was warm. The first of seven groups came to an end and he had won his audience over and sang with expression and feeling.

He was accompanied on the piano by Stewart Wille, who played two solos which were well received. His Rhapsody, by Dohnanyi, was widely applauded and he returned for an encore.

Culbertson's Wife To Withdraw From Bridge Battle for Holidays

BY TOM O'NEIL.
NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A merry Christmas for her children means more to Mrs. Ely Culbertson than victory with her husband in the great test of rival systems of contract bridge. And so, beginning tomorrow night, and until the holidays are over, she will cease to be Mr. Culbertson's partner in his 150-rubber match with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, who represent the "official" system.

Theodore A. Lightner, one of the stars playing the Culbertson system, will replace her. She intends to devote most of her time this week to making sure that "Jump-Bid" and Joyce Culbertson, her son and daughter, respectively, have at least as delightful a holiday as the children of any mother who is not in the public eye as an exponent of a game which has swept the country.

Mrs. Culbertson is withdrawing with her side in the lead for the first time, except spasmodically and by a meagre margin. Largely through her play, she and her husband converted a deficit of 15 points into a plus of 410 points at the last session of the match Tuesday night. She played every hand of one rubber herself. Her play aroused the admiration of her opponents. They expressed it openly.

The agreement for the match stipulates that Lenz and Culbertson shall play with selected partners and that Mrs. Culbertson shall take part in at least 75 rubbers, teaming up with her husband. She intends to live up to the contract. In fact, if Culbertson and Lightner get far behind, she stands ready to re-enter the match even during the holiday season.

With all due regard to the great ability of Lightner and other prospective partners, Culbertson prefers his wife to any partner. To her he has given the major portion of the credit for the system.

Needy Children Eager To Attend Christmas Matinees at Keith's

"I am a mother with three children... my husband has been out of work for a long time... we have no coal in the house... I don't think there will be any Santa Claus for the babies this year... but if you help us out by giving the children a Christmas party we will surely appreciate it... please send me the tickets... I haven't carfare and the weather is too bad to walk three miles to town."

The excerpts are from a real letter received by Manager Whitaker of Keith's Georgia theater. It is typical of many others. They are coming to his office in response to the announcement that his theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will give a free Christmas party for the poor children of Atlanta at 9:30 on the morning of December 24. The only thing necessary to admit any child is one of the free tickets which may be obtained either at the theater, from the city editor of The Constitution or from the Salvation Army.

This party will be the second of two children's parties the theater and this newspaper have arranged. The first will be at the same hour, 9:30, on December 23, the preceding day. This one will be for the more fortunate children, those who can afford to pay something to see the show. Only the admission price for this show isn't money, either.

It is eatables, groceries or the like. A can of corn, or peas or beans, a bunch of carrots, turnips, a head of cabbage, lettuce, a dozen oranges, bananas or some other fruit, will admit one child to the first party. Or anything eatable, in fact. After the show the food will be distributed to families who really need it by the recognized welfare organizations of the city.

Thus both shows, on the mornings of December 23 and 24, will benefit the poorer people of the city, though by different methods.

The programs for these Christmas matinees will include that great picture of childhood, "Skipper," some other special pictures for children and any vaudeville of particular rough appeal on the theater's program that week.

Come on, young Atlanta. Those of you who can afford to give a little food to someone who is hungry, come on December 23. And those of you who really can't afford it, get a free ticket and come on December 24. You'll both be equally welcome and see the same delightful show.

debts, which Germany must meet annually is $112,500,000 less than the total submitted last week by Carl Melchior, Berlin's member of the Young plan committee.

Mr. Melchior's figure was $450,000,000, but according to a reliable source, the subcommittee reported the proper total to be $337,500,000.

The subcommittee, composed of statisticians under the chairmanship of Maurice Freze, of Belgium, also was understood to have concluded that Germany's short-term indebtedness was nearer the $1,850,000,000 set forth in the report of the committee headed by Albert H. Wiggin than to $3,000,000,000, as asserted by Germany before the Young plan experts last week.

The statisticians found, it was said, a number of debts which they were unwilling to recognize as "short-term."

The subcommittee refused to set a figure for German investments abroad, but declared them to be much higher than the $2,120,000,000 set forth in the Wiggin report. This total was estimated July 31.

Sir Walter Layton, British delegate, began writing the final report tonight.

The World Bank board meeting set

Smile--durn ye, Smile!

Reproduced with permission of the Procter & Gamble Co.

AND smile we do—for who can resist the blandishments of that most persuasive old gentleman, St. Nick? Who can keep on pretending his heart is hard and cold when the little bells tinkle on the streets, when the stores are full of gay things, when every child is throbbing with curiosity and thrilling with expectation?

You may have decided, even as late as a few weeks ago, that you would forget Christmas this year. What became of that resolution? Vanished into thin air, didn't it—about the time you mingled with a shopping throng along one of Atlanta's busy streets, or when you spotted some neighbor sneaking into his home the back way, with both arms bundle-filled.

Isn't that what happened to it? And hasn't a new resolution taken its place—a resolution to make this the jolliest, happiest Christmas your folks have ever known? Aren't you getting all set to give something to everybody, no matter if it isn't all they deserve, just to prove you remember and that you love them?

That is the spirit of Atlanta today—and it is the finest spirit a city ever had. Join the throngs, forget you ever had troubles. Smile, durn ye, smile!

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

INSTALLMENT LI.

Bill and she lunched at the Bar-trum for old time's sake. They sat near the window and Irma told Bill how worried she had been lest Wallace try to keep the child.

"Aren't you scared stiff now?" he asked. "Suppose, knowing that you're taking the child this evening, he runs from Mildred's house with Martin and hides him somewhere?"

"Don't laugh at me, Bill. I really was scared that Wallace would try to keep the baby."

"Well, why the hell shouldn't he keep him? He's got as much right to him as you have."

"Legally, but actually my nature is so that I couldn't live without the baby."

"You couldn't, eh?" Bill looked out at the considerable traffic of Thrace's moon hour. "Do you know, Irma, I wouldn't be in your son's shoes for all the money in America?"

"Why not?"

"Because he's got the most selfish mother that God ever let live."

"Bill, believe it or not, I'm not selfish."

"O, you are, Irma. When that kid's a man he'll have something to face all right. You're just the type to say 'Go on along to your party, darling. Don't mind leaving your poor, old mother here all by herself.'"

Irma's face flushed angrily. "I'm not that type at all, Bill. For some reason you're just nasty today."

"Yes, for a good reason, kid. In the interest of dear old man Truth. You'll be the kind of mother I knew too well. 'I want you to be happy, my son, but if you marry the girl you've picked I'll commit suicide.' Don't tell me, Irma, I've watched you for years. You're so selfish that it's a wonder you can't see it."

"I'm not selfish," she repeated doggedly.

"Well, look here, throwing myself a bouquet, I'll say that as far as I know three respectable, decent men have been in love with you. You never cared a hoot for one of us. Why not? Too selfish to love. You couldn't love!"

"Evidently my love for my baby doesn't seem a redeeming trait," Irma said coldly.

"Why the hell should it? My God, he's part of you. If you cry because you have an arm amputated I can't say, 'Look at how she loved that arm, sweet, unselfish woman, she simply adored that arm. And she took such good care of it, too.' Fish cakes, Irma. Every woman except abnormal ones love their kids, but most of them don't run around singing 'Sonny Boy' all the time. Your baby is a part of you. I can't call it love just because you don't care whom you hurt as long as you keep that part of you well and whole. Mother love is a swell name to tack on a lot of things. Many a kid's life has been wrecked by it, too."

"You're unkind and damn fresh, Bill. I don't rate all this yowling you're doing. Just because you've been a good friend I'll bother to answer you. Nothing I've ever done to Martin gives you cause for this. I'm a good mother."

"The hell you are."

"What!" Irma was thunderstruck. Here was somebody who actually doubted that she was a good mother. The idea shocked her. She listened as though paralyzed, to his accusations.

"That kid of yours is a boy. He likes to climb and jump and play boy's games. May he? Oh, no. That would worry mother. Mother places him on a bit of lawn in Central park or in the Bois and there he is perfectly safe with his very correct nurse. Is he having a good time? To hell with that. But mother's having a good time. As long as he's safe mother's free to hit the high spots. Let the kid grow up like a nance, a snob or an invalid. What difference does it make so long as mother's mind has been at ease?

"Bill don't be ridiculous."

"Ridiculous nothing. I've thought you over, Irma, and I've talked to Russell, to Wallace and to the baby, so I know you—and how! You ought to be frightened at the idea of how well I know you."

"I'm not. I've been good to my child."

"Bill, baby. That kid didn't know anything but girl's games when I took him on the boat. You don't love him enough to bear a moment's worry while he slides down a banister, learns to ride a bike or do any of the things that will help him find out whether he's a coward or not. You're just plain selfish, Irma."

"To your way of thinking, perhaps," she said stiffly. "My child has been happy with me. If you remember I never cared about raising any of yours so you needn't be alarmed. Let's drop the subject, Bill."

He sighed. "I guess I better before I start on how you treated Mildred and Wallace just to prove that you're selfish."

Irma laughed weakly. "I wouldn't take from a state trooper what I've taken from you today. If you hadn't been a decent fellow in the old days I'd have crowned you after your first speech."

"But you didn't and what a licking you took, baby. It had to hurt because it's all wool and a yard wide. The truth about Irma Graham in one easy lesson."

"Fold it, Bill. I don't want to fight with you. Let's talk about something we agree on."

"When do you and Martin start being neat up in the penthouse again?"

"We're going to New York tonight."

"O, then I won't see you again?"

"Guess not. You'll be glad probably. Somehow or other you've learned to hate me."

"No, Irma, but I've learned to like your kid."

Martin and Irma did not leave a note requesting that Irma stay over one more day. He had promised to take Martin to the new Chaplin picture. The next day would be Saturday, Wallace's only day to make good his promise."

"You know, Irma," the note read, "when you don't know how long it's going to be before fate permits you another look at your son, it's tough to have him leave you remembering that you broke a promise."

His plea brought sudden tears to Irma's eyes. Nobody could help loving Martin. Certainly Wallace could have the child for the day. By the way, where was the child?

At her question Mildred waved a vague hand toward the door. "He's out there somewhere with the Tompkins' children," she said.

"How do you know? When did you see him last?"

Miss Coppedge Plans Tea To Be Given Tuesday, Dec. 22

Among the interesting affairs which will feature the Yuletide social calendar is the tea at which Miss Anne Wallace Coppedge, lovely young schoolgirl daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Beauchamp Coppedge, will be hostess Tuesday, December 22, at her home on Wesley road.

Miss Coppedge will be assisted in receiving her guests by her mother, Mrs. Coppedge. A group of close friends of the hostess, including Misses Ida Akers, Alice Armstrong, Grace Winecoff, Betty Yopp, Edith Shepherd, Elizabeth See and Mae Morrow, will assist in entertaining.

Miss Dorothy Dent Will Entertain

Miss Dorothy Dent will be hostess at ten tomorrow to 100 members of the school set from 4 to 6 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dent, on Myrtle street. She will be assisted in entertaining by a group of close friends, including Misses Frances Austin, Julian and Isabelle Boykin, Margaret Colbert, Margaret Knott, Mary Cary Maynard and Elise Elrod, of Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

This affair will be one of the first of the innumerable social gayeties planned for the Christmas holidays for the younger set and will be marked by the presence of a number of college belles, who have already arrived in Atlanta to spend the Yuletide vacation.

Miss Marian Ray Weds Mr. Kunzer.

The marriage of Miss Marian Ray and Arthur J. Kunzer, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., but a resident of Atlanta at present, was quietly solemnized Saturday, December 12, by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church.

The bride was lovely in her costume of brown crepe, worn with hat of brown felt, and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Kunzer left for St. Louis immediately after the ceremony to visit their relatives, and upon their return to Atlanta will reside with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ray, 555 Ridgecrest road.

Lawrence Tibbett Views "The Cuban Love Song" With Attractive Atlanta Debutantes in Fox Theater

Lawrence Tibbett is herewith pictured with Misses Betty Timmons and Catherine Flagler, seated in the Fox theater, viewing his fascinating picture, "The Cuban Love Song." He is explaining to the charming debutantes the manner in which a moving picture is produced and seems to be enjoying his experience to the utmost. The story accompanying the picture was written by Miss Elizabeth Thompson, a member of the debutante coterie and a member of The Constitution's editorial staff. Photo by George Cornett, staff photographer.

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Lawrence Tibbett, big of smile and big of heart, captivated Atlanta debutantes who met him yesterday at the Fox theater. His nonchalant and unassuming manner charmed this particular group, including Miss Catherine Flagler, Betty Timmons, Louise Moore, Elizabeth Moorman, of Oklahoma City, Okla., and the writer. However, this popular star appeals to men as well as to women, as is demonstrated by the unusually large percentage of men in his motion picture and concert audiences.

This celebrity, who is boyish and refreshing, despite his rapid rise to fame, was a dapper figure dressed completely in blue, which accentuated the color of his eyes. His suit was dark blue serge and double-breasted, augmented by a shirt and tie in brighter tones, all three shades being reflected in his handkerchief. He talked entertainingly of his trip to Cuba, upon which he leaves today and which he is anticipating with a great deal of pleasure. He will be on the tropical island two weeks and will give two concerts.

"Oh, I'm so disappointed that you are leaving for Cuba after only two days here," exclaimed vivacious Miss Timmons. Mr. Tibbett gallantly re-

Carol Service.

Pupils of Mrs. Mary Buttrick Starnes will present a Christmas carol program at the Inman Park Methodist church at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Solos will be rendered by Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, Mrs. McIntosh Burns and Mrs. Leonora Fulghum. Mrs. Mary Caldwell, organist of the church, will be at the organ and Mrs. Starnes at the piano. Miss Lois Shankle, violinist, will also give a special number.

To follow his path to fame as singers. "You are a good enough singer for the whole family, daddy," he quoted one of his young sons as remarking recently. "Larry is particularly musical," he declared. "His ambition is to be an orchestra conductor, and really, the way he conducts to victrola music is remarkable." The little boys are en route to New York from Hollywood and Mr. Tibbett has already purchased tickets for them to attend the concert to be given by Toscanini at an early date. He will join his sons on his return from Cuba, about the first of the year.

Larry Jr. and Richard are ardent sports enthusiasts, being particularly fond of horseback riding. "They like to see me at work in the studios when there is fighting or horseback riding in the picture. Otherwise, they are not interested. In short, they are real boys," said their father. As far as personal pleasure is concerned, Mr. Tibbett prefers singing in concerts, where he can express his own personality and individuality, than playing parts in motion pictures or singing in operas when he must take a character part. However, films reach a great many more people in all parts of the country and he considers them well worth the tremendous labor spent in producing them.

"In making a motion picture," he explained, "it is impossible to do anything else at all. It is necessary for the actors, even the leading stars, to rise at 6:30 o'clock in the morning and to remain on location all day. Even after dinner they must return in the evening to see the rushes of the day's work. In contrast, when on concert tours, I come in contact with many fascinating people and enjoy the new friendships I make."

Following the concert last evening Mr. and Mrs. Candler Dobbs Jr. entertained a small group of friends at supper at their handsome home on Valley road in honor of Mr. Tibbett, who is a close friend of the Dobbs, and has enjoyed their hospitality on previous visits. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Bird, Mr. and Mrs. William Huger, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnett, Miss Louise Moore and her guest, Miss Elizabeth Moorman, of Oklahoma City, Okla.; C. B. Blakeman and Stewart Willie, Mr. Tibbett's accompanist.

Miss Evelyn Melton Weds Mr. Smith At Quiet Home Ceremony in Decatur

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Melton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Melton, to Otis McDonald Smith, was quietly solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents on Kings highway in Decatur. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. P. McGee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Decatur.

Miss Clara Askew and Mr. Merritt Wed at Ceremony in LaFayette, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Maclean Askew, of Decatur, announce the marriage of their daughter, Clara Louie, to Forrest Brittain Merritt, of LaFayette, Ala., and Atlanta. The marriage was quietly solemnized Sunday evening, December 6, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Merritt will spend part of the holidays in Alabama, returning to Atlanta to spend Christmas with the bride's parents.

Miss Barnett Is Honor Guest Mrs. Jenkins Fetes Lovely Schoolgirls.

Miss Mary Brown was hostess last evening complimenting Miss Evelyn Barnett, popular bride-elect, with a bridge party at her home on Sycamore street, in Decatur. Invited to meet the honor guest were Mesdames Forrest Hill, William Burckel, Fred Conrad, Robert Davis, Chase Van Valkenburg, Arch Avery, James Alsbrough, Edmund Cluett, James A. Benton, Donald Hastings, Eugene Brown, Misses Eleanor Hopkins, Martha Overton, Helen Anderson, Virginia Skeen, Laurie Linthicum.

Mrs. Rutherford Brown assisted her daughter in entertaining. Mrs. Bartow Ford Jr. was hostess Wednesday at her home on Noble drive at a luncheon in honor of Miss Barnett. The guests included Mrs. William Garrett Burckel, Mrs. J. Joel Knight, Mrs. John Pfeiffer, of Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Francis Dwyer and Miss Barnett.

Miss Cook Weds Clive Folger Jr. On December 22

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 16.—Cordial interest centers in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cook, of this city, of the engagement of their daughter, Frances Lucile, to Clive Folger Jr., the marriage to be solemnized Tuesday, December 22, at Christ church at Frederica, St. Simon's Island.

The bride-elect is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cook, and is a sister of Kyle Cook, of Miami, Fla., and Lawson Cook, of Higginsville, Mo. Miss Cook graduated from the university, is a member of the Chi Omega sorority and was president of the Woman's Panhellenic council her senior year. Since her graduation she has been a member of the faculty of the Fitzgerald High school. At present she is teaching home economics in the senior high of Decatur, Ga.

Mr. Folger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Folger, of Douglas, Ga.; formerly of Seneca, S. C. He is a brother of Benjamin Folger and Mrs. Thomas Deen, of Douglas. Mr. Folger is a resident of Atlanta, where he holds a responsible position with the A. B. & C. railroad.

number of the younger social contingent will be invited. Miss Jenkins and Miss Butters are popular classmates at St. Genevieve of the Pines in Asheville, N. C., and their friends will be interested to know of their return to the city for the holidays. Miss Butters will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Butters, at their home on Huntington road.

Culbertson on Contract

The Safer Plan of Play.

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

When North laid down his hand as Dummy in the deal pictured below, after West had opened the Queen of hearts, South for a moment regretted his moderation in not having bid for a Slam. If—and this word always seems to stand at the cross-roads of life—the trump suit is divided 2-2 in the adverse hands and the diamond finesse wins, the only loser is a heart. However, South had contracted to take 10 tricks and not 12, and so he regarded his contract as already assured.

The hand:

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

♠ K 9 8 3	♥ A 7 6 3	♦ A 7 6 3	♣ K 10 4

♠ J 8 5 3	♥ A 7 6 3	♦ A 7 6 3	♣ K 10 4
♠ J 8 5 3	♥ A 7 6 3	♦ A 7 6 3	♣ K 10 4
♠ J 8 5 3	♥ A 7 6 3	♦ A 7 6 3	♣ K 10 4
♠ J 8 5 3	♥ A 7 6 3	♦ A 7 6 3	♣ K 10 4

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
4♠ (1)	Pass	4♠ (2)	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South, with 4-1-2 honor-tricks, by his forcing rebid compels North to choose the suit best fitted to his hand.

2—Of course, North's choice is obvious. The heart suit was continued and South trumped the second round. He now laid down a high trump and found that the trumps were all bunched in one hand—the most unfavorable distribution of the suit that could have happened. Many players would now stake their hopes of game upon the success of the diamond finesse, and when this lost would concede defeat. However, even with the trumps bunched and with the Queen of diamonds unfavorably placed, South can still make his contract.

The correct play is to enter the Dummy with the Ace of clubs and lead a heart. If the trump suit cannot be established, the trumps should then be made separately. South should use a trump on this round of hearts and then lay down the King of clubs. The seventh and eighth tricks should be won with the Ace and King of diamonds. South's remaining club should be led and trumped in the Dummy and the King of hearts led and trumped with the 7 of spades. South then should lay down the King of spades and concede the last 2 tricks to East with his trumps.

The element of risk in this line of play is negligible compared with that involved in the taking of the diamond finesse, as the Declarer knows that he can use his small trumps to ruff hearts and the only danger is that East may hold but a single diamond. If East had held one diamond originally, and South had had any method of learning of that distribution, he could still have made his contract, as he would then lay down one top diamond and enter the Dummy to make the second lead of that suit through East. If East trumped, obviously the contract would be made, but if he refused to trump, then he would have been made the victim of an end play, whereby he would have been thrown in on the eleventh round only to lead helplessly up to the trumps contained in the Dummy and closed hands. The reader may determine the process for himself.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What three classes of tricks do we find in the Responding Hand?
Answer: 1. Honor-tricks.
2. Long-suit tricks.
3. Short-suit tricks.

Burgess Children's Stories

UNPLEASANT INTRODUCTIONS.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

"It's sometimes hard to be polite but it is wisest to be as well as right."
—Old Mother Nature.

Runtz, the little Possum, was smart. There was no question about that. He made mistakes as everybody does, but he was smart enough to profit by his mistakes. He didn't make the same mistake twice. He learned from his mistakes and didn't forget. Perhaps that is what mistakes are for. His first big mistake was when he went to sleep in Farmer Brown's henhouse. But for that he wouldn't have been found by Farmer Brown's Boy. He didn't consider that he made a mistake by going into that henhouse. He would do it again if he got the chance, but he wouldn't go to sleep there again.

At present he was a prisoner in a cage, but not an unhappy one, for he had taken him no time at all to discover that this great giant who had caught and imprisoned him meant him no harm and was very gentle. He had discovered, too, that playing dead didn't fool Farmer Brown's Boy a bit, so he stopped trying it. In fact, he and Farmer Brown's Boy became the best of friends. Often he was taken from his cage and then he would climb over Farmer Brown's Boy and investigate all his pockets. Always he sooner or later found in one of them some tidbit. Then he would take it to one of Farmer Brown's Boy's shoulders and eat it.

Then one day Farmer Brown's Boy introduced him to Bowser the Hound. He held Runtz in one hand, while he patted Bowser's head with the other and Bowser wagged his tail and smelled Runtz all over. It was a most pleasant introduction for Runtz. He was afraid. Of course. Wouldn't you have been? But he was polite. He didn't try to get away.

Bowser, a strong, brown, shaggy dog, "this is a new member of the family and you are to treat him as such. If ever he gets out of his cage and you find him you are not to hurt him. Do you understand?"

Bowser wagged his tail as if to say he understood. He did understand. Of course, he didn't understand the words, but he did understand from the way Farmer Brown's Boy spoke and the way he patted Runtz that here was someone his master was fond of and that was enough. From that time on he would no more think of hurting Runtz than he would of hurting one of the chickens.

Then Farmer Brown's Boy called Flip the Terrier and another unpleasant introduction followed. Flip was a different disposition. He was excited. He sniffed Runtz all over and then he began to bark and dance about, which was his way of begging his master to put Runtz down on the ground and let him chase him. Farmer Brown's Boy spoke to him sharply. "Quiet Flip!" he commanded. "Lie down, sir."

Flip meekly crouched at his master's feet, looking puzzled eyes up at him. Farmer Brown's Boy stooped and held Runtz close to Flip's nose, all the time stroking him and talking in a low tone. After that he put Runtz on Flip's back. Flip trembled all over. He didn't know what to make of it. He turned his head to look at this queer little fellow on his back and then up at his master. Farmer Brown's Boy patted him on the head. "Good dog," said he.

Flip understood this. Once more he was commanded to lie down and Runtz was placed between his paws, right under his nose. "Take care of him," commanded Farmer Brown's Boy. "Quiet Flip!" he commanded. "Lie down, sir."

So Runtz was introduced to Bowser the Hound and Flip the Terrier. They were most trying and unpleasant introductions and he was greatly frightened, but as no harm came from them he was smart enough not to show his fright. He just wondered what it all meant.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

My parents don't get along together. I try to be impartial but it is awfully hard. My father doesn't work at anything. My mother has held the same position for 16 years. She was from a good family and never did any work before she was married. When I was two years old she took this job to help father make a living. He just lay down on the job and she has kept up the family ever since. Everything I am and have I owe to my mother: position and education. If father gets hold of any money he uses it to get drunk. So you see it is difficult to make a happy home. I never accept any social invitations because I can't return them. I am not willing to bring people into my home and let them see the conditions. If a girl comes home with me father criticizes her and I have been afraid to bring any boys home with me. I have a good position. It doesn't pay me much, though it is congenial work. Father gets drunk and comes to my office and I am afraid it will cause me to lose my job. But I am also afraid to speak to him about it. If either mother or I go up street he is cross and talks about it for days. Please tell me how to improve conditions.

C. G.

ANSWER:

A worthless man who doesn't try to support his family and one who uses his money to buy drink isn't entitled to have any say in the affairs of his family. I can't see any reason why his preferences should be considered or his demands met. I can't see why you should feel the necessity for treating him and your mother with impartial affection or duty. One merits all you have to give, and the other merits nothing. Nor do I see why you feel that his disgraceful conduct should cut you out of normal pleasures that a young girl is entitled to. Nobody will condemn you for having a worthless father. Nobody will condemn you for having a drunkard father. Your lives are separate and distinct and you should begin to realize it.

My suggestion to you is to improve your own condition and stop worrying about a condition you cannot improve. Bring your friends into your home regardless of his criticism. If he makes a scene you won't be held accountable for it. Accept the invitations that come to you, and in return, issue some yourself. A home that is supported by your mother and you is your home, not his. Your mother and you both made the mistake of allowing him to crow you, so to speak. He should be given to understand that he forfeited his place as head of the home, both by his refusal to work and by his shameful conduct. He is evidently a bully and a bully knows when he has met his master. Your mother has, probably, to put up with his querulousness, so long as she lives with him. She, too, has a moral right to ignore his unreasonable demands. If you leave home you would be abandoning her when she needed you sorely. But even her claims on you do not require you to turn your back on all social pleasures.

It is perfectly natural for you to have become sensitive about the unhappy state of the family. You must set about to conquer that sensitiveness. There are plenty of young girls who manage to maintain a normal social life under such circumstances. Not an ideal one, perhaps, but a normal one. As for your father's visits to your office it might be handled by speaking to your employer and telling him that you are in the case. It would hurt your pride to expose your father but that would be better than losing your job. Simply tell the employer that you do not wish your father to be admitted when he comes to see you drunk. That will absolve you from responsibility in connection with his visits. If your employer fancies that you are responsible for those visits, or even that you encourage them, he might be annoyed with you. But when he knows that you are a victim of a drunken father's whims he cannot, in justice, condemn you.

It is not dignified to be constantly holding up a family skeleton for outsiders to gaze upon but it is often expedient to state the fact that exists and leave the matter there. You will find most people very sympathetic with innocent suffering and find them ready and willing to lend a helping hand. We have to face facts in the open before we can master them. The facts you must face are that you have an admirable mother, hard working, ambitious, faithful. You have a worthless, conscienceless father whose one claim to manhood seems to be his will to dominate his helpless womenfolk. Let your friends come in and see for themselves and judge between them.

Brassiere Bathing Suits Will Offer Censors Problem at Winter Resorts

BY RUTH COWAN.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Beach censors are going to have plenty to consider at winter resorts this season, for the brassiere bathing suit for women has made its appearance in a large way in the advance Palm Beach and Winter Haven fashion showing.

This suit, which is nothing but a brassiere and a pair of trunks with six inches between, is of heavy ribbed knit, jersey lined. It is shown in emerald, ruby, black or royal blue. Another new style is the bracelet neck bathing suit with low back. In this model the shoulder strap goes around the neck. The harness back style has invaded the bathing suit field, and a third model has back straps patterned after those of the overalls.

There's a novel suit on which the back can be made high or low. There are several styles in which the extent of territory to be tanned can be regulated by means of straps and eyelets. Very new are the rodier scarfs. These daily printed squares are unhemmed and are slit about 10 inches toward the center at one corner. The two ends are tied around the neck and the rest of the scarf is worn in front, tucked in the belt of the beach trousers. The scarfs also are wrapped around the head, turban fashion.

Also right out of the style book are the St. Tropez slacks. They are copies of trousers worn by fishermen in the picturesque port of St. Tropez on the Mediterranean sea in the south of France. They are made out of colorful sail cloth.

Following the preference for solid colors, most of the bathing suits are of one shade. White and black predominate.

HOOVER'S APPOINTEES APPROVED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Without argument, a series of nominations were quickly approved today by senate committees.

Among them were President Hoover's recess appointments: R. Castle as undersecretary of state and of Harvey H. Bunday as assistant secretary of state for the foreign relations committee.

The finance committee approved the nomination of Richard N. Elliott, former republican representative from Indiana, to be assistant comptroller general.

A number of other nominations also were approved subject to the consent of the senators from the appointees' states. These included:

Hal H. Clements, Knoxville, collector of internal revenue for Tennessee.

'Big Ten' Sympathizers Prepare Fight for Redistricting Move; Tech and Georgia Seek To Harmonize 1932 Football Schedules

SPLIT BACKERS TO WAGE FIGHT AT NEW ORLEANS

Opposition Against New Group Expected From Northern Sector.

By Jimmy Jones.
The recent backing of the University of North Carolina regarding entrance to the proposed "Big Ten" is seen as a definite indication that institution will stick to the northern group, local leaders in the movement stated on the eve of the annual Southern conference meeting in New Orleans which begins today.

"Much publicity has been brought out about the intentions of the so-called 'Big Ten' and no doubt pressure was brought on North Carolina by the North Atlantic group to keep that institution from joining the new movement to the south," one delegate pointed out.

Since most of North Carolina's athletic competition is with the northern group, the school can hardly be blamed.

BETTER IDEALS.
Professor A. H. Armstrong, one of Georgia Tech's delegates, stated just before departing for New Orleans with Coach Alexander last night that the men behind the "Big Ten" had not swayed in their ideals and hoped to accomplish something in the way of reform at New Orleans.

"At least the seeds for better ideals will be sown," it was stated.

The "Big Ten" leaders will hold an informal meeting today to discuss the situation before opening fire.

The latter have made it clear that they do not wish to disrupt the conference, but a redistricting of the organization which now includes 23 schools may come about as a result of the recent agitation.

COMPACT GROUPS.
It has developed that the purpose is more to bring about certain reforms such as a scholastic standard on entrance requirements and work passed, than to form a separate self-governing body. A new and permanent organization such as the "Big Ten" in the midwest was forecast at the start of the movement by persons who hoped to see the unwieldy conference split up into more compact groups, based on geographic lines.

In addition to the fireworks on this question, much discussion on radio, recruiting of players and motion picture scouting is expected to take place.

Coaches from all over the south will be there to finish filling out their 1932 schedules.

Wallace Wade, of Duke, who spoke to the Duke alumni in Atlanta last night, will drive over today, while Harry Robertson, of Oglethorpe, and W. A. Alexander, of Tech, will be there to represent the south.

While in New Orleans, the Tech team will be under the supervision of assistant coaches in preparing for its game with California here December 26.

Lake Russell Off to Meeting.
MACON, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Lake Russell, head coach at Mercer University, today left the city for New Orleans, where he will attend the meeting of the "Big Ten" and the Southern conference this week.

Russell has business to discuss with representatives of several of the conference teams. Scheduling of basketball games for this season is one of the motives for his trip.

Mercer basketball practice was not held today because of examinations going on at the university. Practice may not be resumed until after the Christmas holidays.

Duke Quint Opens 1932 Season Tonight
DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Coach Eddie Cameron's 1932 team of Duke basketball players will open the season tomorrow night at Baltimore, Md., by meeting the University of Baltimore team.

It will also mark the first time in many years that Coach Cameron will send his boys into a game without much hope of a victory. They are a little too green, the Duke men in the past, and are going up against a mighty team.

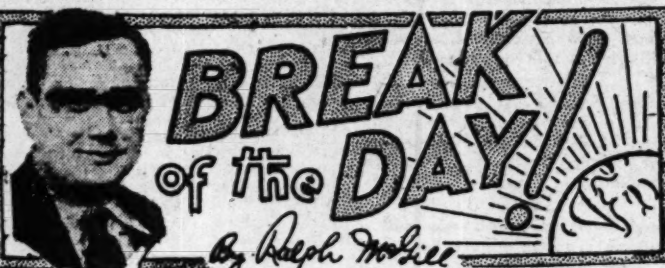

The Devils left here last night for Baltimore and will arrive in the morning of the trip to Washington, D. C., Saturday night since Christmas holidays begin at Duke on that day.

They will meet Georgetown at Washington on Friday night and on the following evening play the Catholic University team there. No more games are listed until January 8 when they meet Wake Forest here.

Schaaf Defeats Bergomas Quickly
BOSTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, defeated Giacomo Bergomas, Italian, in the second round tonight. The Italian went down from a blow to the body and although he writhed on the floor displaying indications of a foul the referee counted him out.

The Italian displayed little or no aggressiveness and was an easy victim for Schaaf's jolts and jabs during the short time the fight lasted. Schaaf gave away 20 pounds, Bergomas weighing 226 to his 206.

Former Giant Signs To Coach White Sox
CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Bill Cunningham, former New York Giant and Boston Braves outfielder, today was engaged as coach by the Chicago White Sox. The signing of Cunningham, a native and resident of San Francisco, gives the Sox an all-California staff. Manager Lew Fonseca and Coach Johnny Butler also come from that state.

ABOARD GEORGIA SPECIAL, Dec. 16.—Georgia football players would put nine men from the Southern California football team on their All-Opponents' eleven.

Only Albie Booth, of Yale, and Bob McNamara, of New York University, were deemed better than other opponents.

Booth, the boys say, would be really unstoppable with the great Trojan line in front of him and the blocking supplied by the backs, Pinkert and Shaver.

And McNamara was deemed a better threat than Mohler, Trojan back, in the set-up which would be provided.

Don Zimmerman was the only southern back who supplied an argument. And Pete Gracey, Vanderbilt center, was also considered. But it was finally decided that the others would make up a better lineup.

While the selection might be thought to be unduly influenced by the tremendous victory which the Trojans scored, it is unlikely.

Reviewing the southern field one finds no player who could be shoved forward with the confident assertion that he is a better player than one on the Trojan eleven. I would say that Catfish Smith and Jerry Dalrymple might be the ends, but there would be considerable argument there.

The Trojan line was selected in entirety. It includes Sparling at left end, Smith at tackle, Baker at guard, Williamson at center, Rosenberg at guard, Brown at tackle and Arbelbeide at the other flank.

Sparling is not only a magnificent defensive end and splendid in the normal offensive functions of an end, but he is used as a halfback. In that capacity he becomes one of the greatest backs in the business. Baker, Williamson and Smith are other outstanding linemen.

The others were also deemed superior to any the Bulldogs had faced all year.

As a matter of fact the Bulldogs would place Erskine, a sub tackle, ahead of Brown, the regular.

The backfield would be composed of Albie Booth, Shaver, Pinkert and Bob McNamara.

All of which gives a general idea of the tremendous power and strength of the Trojans. There are few players in the south who could make the first string squad.

ONE OF THE GREAT THRILLS.
Next to the first trip up in an airplane among hazardous pastimes is getting a shave on a train where the barber uses an old-fashioned straight razor. And I don't know but that I prefer an outside loop or so to the point where the barber begins working beneath the old snoot and the roadbed gets rough.

The barber coming back was a stylist. He is the Bobby Jones of his profession. He worked smoothly, setting his feet to the sway of the train and going right ahead. Nevertheless, there must have been his first time. Just as there was the first man to eat the first oyster, there was the first time he ever shaved a man on a train.

He said that his first customer, years ago, on the run from Los Angeles to New York, was a bit nervous, and yet he got through without trouble.

"Work is work," said the barber. "You get used to anything." Which isn't bad philosophy.

The barber with the Georgia train has shaved most of the film notables, many men famous in politics and business, and likes his job.

DON'T DISMISS TULANE.
Don't count the Green Wave completely out of the Rose Bowl game. Georgia's defeat is no measuring stick for the game. Georgia was not the type team to meet the Trojan attack. The Georgians were light and fast. A heavier, slower team would do much better against the Trojans.

For instance, Georgia would likely defeat Washington State, the team which Tulane defeated December 5. Yet Washington State, being more rugged, would play the Trojans a much better game.

Unless the Trojans have a much better pass defense than they showed against Georgia, Tulane will score two or three on passes.

Do not count the Wave out. With Scaife, Lodrigues and the others, all of whom are over 200 pounds, the Tulane line won't be swept back as was Georgia's. Tulane has a distinct chance.

PAUL REVERE'S HORSE.
Mr. Ed Danforth and your correspondent, who spent one of the days in California at the home of Johnny Mack Brown, the former Alabama football star and now one of the better movie stars, have probably bored the inhabitants of the train no little. Most of the story had to do with the antiques in Mr. Brown home.

"A young lady on the train was telling another about it. And they say," she said, "that he has something of Paul Revere's."

"Probably his horse," said Mr. Harry Mehre.

Four Tennis Stars To Play in Benefit
CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Four of the nation's ranking tennis stars, Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., national champion; George Lott, runner-up to Vines last season; John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, and Frank Shields, New York, will appear in a benefit exhibition in the Chicago stadium December 29.

Lober To Manage Jersey City Team
JERSEY CITY, Dec. 16.—(AP)—John (Hans) Lober, famous National league infielder of two decades ago, today was named manager of the Jersey City baseball team of the International league.

Lober succeeds Bob Shawkey, former manager of the Yankees. He signed a one-year contract.

Jones Golf Pictures At A. A. C. Tonight
Members of the Atlanta Athletic Club and their guests will have the unusual opportunity at 8:30 o'clock tonight of seeing the entire series of 12 moving pictures on "How I Play Golf," by Bobby Jones, retired champion of champions, at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The pictures are being shown through the co-operation of Warner Brothers, producers; Bobby Jones, the principal, and officials of the Atlanta Athletic Club.

A buffet dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the club will precede the pictures and every member of the club is invited to be present, both at the dinner and to view the pictures.

PAPER TO OKAY SCHMELING GO IS INTRODUCED

15-Round Bouts Are Not Permissible Under Present Legislation.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Hope that an amendment to the Illinois boxing law to provide for 15-round championship bouts would make possible a title match between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker in Chicago early next year was revived tonight when a bill was introduced in the Illinois house of representatives, despite an adverse opinion by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom today.

Carlstrom previously had told George Gets, millionaire Chicago sportsman, who sought introduction of the amendment bill that it could not be presented as it was not on call for the legislature's special session.

However, Representative Frank Ryan, Chicago, introduced a bill in the house as an emergency measure and it was advanced to second reading without reference to a committee.

Ryan introduced the bill as coming under Governor Emmerson's call for special legislation to increase the state's revenue. The bill, which would be held in the Chicago stadium in February or March, figures to draw a gate of more than $200,000 at prices scaled from $5 to $25, of which the state would take 10 per cent in taxes.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis, of the stadium, said Joe Jacobs, manager of the champion, had promised the bout to Chicago, provided a 15-round bout became possible. Schmeling has refused to defend his title in bouts less than 15 rounds.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Chicago's plans for presenting a heavyweight championship match between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker early next year for charity, suffered a jolt today when it was learned there was no chance of gaining permission for 15-round title bouts until the next session of the Illinois legislature.

George Gets, millionaire Chicago sportsman and co-promoter with the late Tex Rickard, of the Dempsey-Tunney bout in Soldier field in September, 1927, was told by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom that as an amendment to the boxing law was not on call at the last regular session of the legislature, it could not be brought up now.

The legislature is holding a special meeting to find ways and means of effecting financial relief for Chicago and Cook county.

The bout was to have been promoted by the Chicago Stadium Corporation, which has made Schmeling an offer of $200,000 to defend his title against Walker here. Matchmaker Nate Lewis is still trying to bring the bout to Chicago, but has Schmeling's objection to 10-round championship fights to overcome.

J. P. C. QUINTET PLAYS GRAYSON
Progressives, Greyhounds and Reds, All-Stars Open Season Tonight.

A double-header starting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Progressive Club on the South Pryor street court will formally open Atlanta's major basketball season. The Progressives will meet the Grayson Greyhounds at 9 o'clock in the feature, following the game at 8 o'clock between the J. P. C. Reds and Georgia All-Stars.

There will be an inaugural program honoring Dave Johnston, the new J. P. C. coach, who succeeded Lukie Rosenberg at the beginning of the season. Johnston was a member of the Boys' High quintet and will work with the Progressives every night.

A dance will follow the double-header as a climax to the night's activities.

The opening lineup will likely consist of Harry Fineberg and Mayer Balser, at forwards; Joe Finkelstein, center, and Izzy Friedland and Lukie Rosenberg at guards.

Only Dudy Spielberger, who sustained an ankle injury in a recent game, will be unable to play. Others on the varsity squad include Goodman, Harry Spielberger, Pollock, Minsk, Kleja and Hirsch.

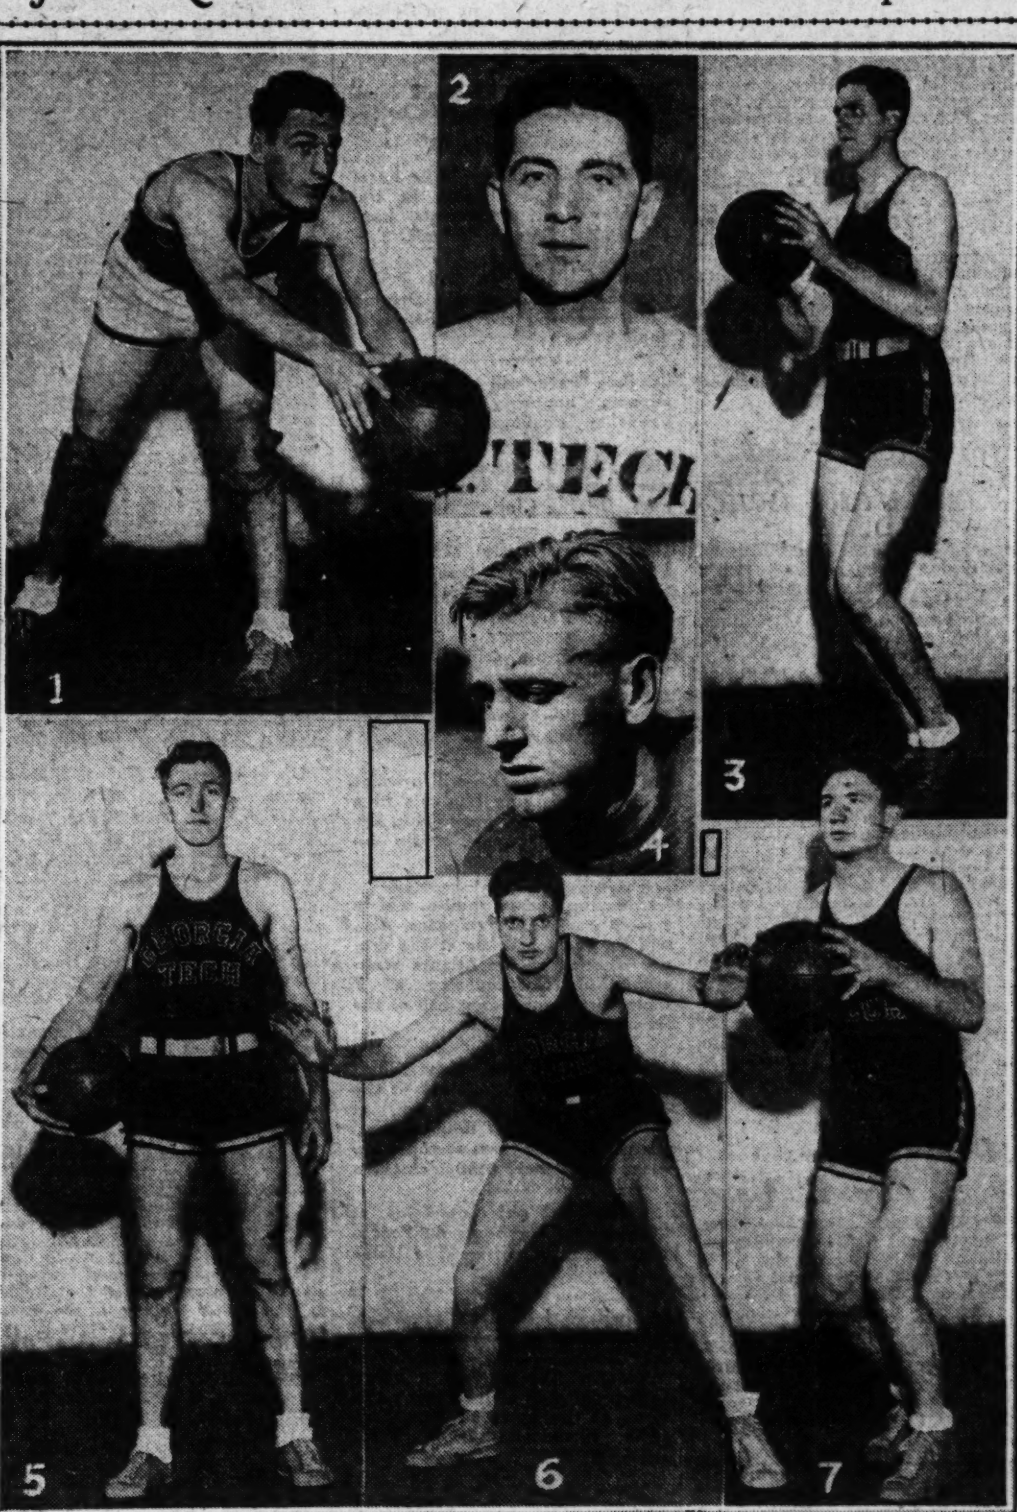

Victory-Mad Grads Vanishing Power
ROME, N. Y., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The college alumnus who desires football victories at any cost is a vanishing power in football. John F. (Chick) Meehan, retiring New York University coach, said here last night. He indicated he considered this a good thing for the game, characterizing the "victory at any price" alumni as "sympathetic graduates who stood as a barrier between natural rivals, and were intolerant when players made mistakes."

Turning to attacks on the game because of injuries and deaths and charges of commercialization, the famous coach said "football needs no defense; the defense is always the following season's record."

The depression, not wanting interest in the game, he said, was responsible for a falling off in attendance at games this fall.

MRS. ROOPE WINS.
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. George W. Roope, of Boston, today won the Florida Women's Club 54-hole medal play golf tournament when she scored a 91 on the final round for a total of 285. Mrs. Stephen Gibbs was runner-up with 305.

Georgia Tech's basketball squad, which opens play against Florida January 9, is hard at work under Coach Roy Mundorff. With only two veterans, Bill Perkins and Hugh Gooding, back, Mundorff is looking around for some new talent. Above are shown Perkins and Gooding, leading conference scorers, with promising contenders for positions. The players are: 1, Pool, guard; 2, Mundorff, coach; 3, Perkins, center; 4, Slocum, forward; 5, Gatlin, center; 6, Davis, guard; 7, Gooding, forward.

PROBE UNCOVERS GRID PAYMENTS
World-Telegram 'Claims' Evidence by Investigating Committee.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The New York World-Telegram said today that evidence of secret payments to Columbia University football players has been uncovered by a committee investigating the university's athletic administration.

The committee, composed of members of the Nacoms Society, a secret organization of seniors and alumni, also has discovered, the World-Telegram said, that some athletes engage in professional sports during the summer months with the knowledge of Columbia coaches.

Proselyting a monger preparatory school athletes also is practiced, the paper said.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes, of Columbia College, is making an informal and unofficial inquiry while a committee of the alumni association has been appointed to make an inquiry for the alumni, it was said.

Columbia Leaders Deny "Paper" Charges.
NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Columbia University leaders, including Head Coach Lou Little, came forth quickly today with denials of the charges, published in the New York World-Telegram, that evidence of secret payments to Columbia football players had been uncovered by a committee investigating the university's athletic administration.

Four of the leading coaches in America are being prominently spoken of for the place. They are Chet Wynne, Alabama Polytechnic Institute; Chick Meehan, New York University; "Slip" Madigan, St. Mary's, and Jim Crowley, Michigan State. Each of the above mentors produced one of the leading teams in his section during the 1931 season.

A large faction of Iowa alumni favor Wynne because they are familiar with his work the seven years he coached at Creighton University. The Auburn Tigers won their first Southern conference victory in four years Wynne's initial season as their head coach in 1930.

Auburn Captain Marries Secretly
AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Instead of co-captains at helm, the Auburn 1932 football team has three leaders.

Announcement was made today of Co-captain "Chattie" Davidson's marriage to Miss Mary Hughes, of Tyler, Texas, on September 3 as the culmination of a campus romance begun last year.

Mrs. Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Hughes, of Tyler, is a junior at Auburn, while Davidson, after starting three years on the Tiger eleven, ends his college career in May. Davidson's home is in Montgomery.

James Bush, of Mobile, divided leadership honors with Davidson on the field.

Chocolate Weds By Proxy in Cuba
HAVANA, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, Cuban prize fighter, was married today by proxy to Rosario Mora.

Meanwhile, Chocolate was steaming toward Havana aboard the liner Moro Castle after 15 days' imprisonment in the United States awaiting hearing on a request for extradition. It was assumed that the charges of seduction pending against him in Havana courts would be dropped.

Georgia To Abandon Huddle Next Fall
ABOARD GEORGIA SPECIAL, Dec. 16.—Coach Harry Mehre announced tonight that next fall would find the Bulldogs abandoning the huddle. The huddle was used to accommodate Austin Downes, quarterback, whose voice was not loud enough for signal calling. With Sully Sullivan's voice plenty loud and carrying the old power appeal, the Bulldogs will be able to quit the huddle and save time.

MAJOR GAMES ON PROGRAMS OF TWO TEAMS

Conflicting Dates To Be Avoided; Bulldogs Back Tulane.

By Ralph McGill.
ABOARD GEORGIA FOOTBALL SPECIAL, Dec. 16.—Georgia and Georgia Tech are seeking to work out their schedules so that either Atlanta or Athens will offer a major game each Saturday with no conflict between the two.

If the schedules are so arranged at the meeting which begins in New Orleans Thursday, Georgia will play V. P. I. at Blacksburg, Va., and will open the home schedule at Athens. Tulane will occupy the old Yale date.

Vanderbilt would return to Athens under the proposed plan. This would obviate the necessity of both Georgia and Georgia Tech playing in Nashville, a situation which existed during the past year when Vanderbilt played in Athens one week and in Atlanta the next.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, of Georgia, said tonight that he hoped to be able to so arrange the schedule offering Tulane and Vanderbilt at Athens. He has reason to believe he will succeed.

Meanwhile Georgia Tech is working out her schedule with the hope of avoiding conflicts. Clemens, for the Georgia schedule if the Clemson officials can shift a date they now have. This will be taken up at the New Orleans meeting.

A NEW RIVALRY.
"The site of but a few games is assured," said Dr. Sanford. "We will play V. P. I., Tulane, North Carolina, Vanderbilt, Florida, New York University, Clemson, Auburn and Tech. But we cannot yet announce where."

Unless I am very much mistaken, there has been born a very definite rivalry between the state of Georgia and California football teams.

The boys who were left for the 1932 Georgia football team are almost home as this is written. The train is somewhere in Tennessee with the horizon jammed right up against the train instead of stretching for miles.

And the boys are around hoping that sometime before they are graduated from school at Athens another game with Southern California can be arranged. The boys admit the present superiority of the Trojans. They feel that they should have lost by three touchdowns but no more.

There is no immediate prospect for a game between the two institutions, but the boys will be greatly obliged if one can be arranged before the sophomores on the present outfit are graduated.

PULL FOR TULANE.
The Georgians are squarely behind Tulane. They realize that, if the Green Wave wins, it will make the Georgia performance look all the worse, but that doesn't matter. When the Wave goes on the field, they will carry the Georgia fans with them.

The train started losing passengers at Albuquerque when Mrs. Tom Reed, wife of Registrar Tom Reed, stopped off to visit a sister there. A Kansas City Det. Twomey, line coach, left the train to get another for his home in northern Minnesota.

The big exodus was scheduled for Birmingham, where Harry Mehre, H. J. Stegeman and Dr. S. V. Sanford left to get a New Orleans train, so as to be on hand for the Southern conference meeting in that city on Thursday and Friday.

EXODUS HERE.
Atlanta was to see another exodus some time Thursday morning. Most of the players will leave the train there, and go home for the holidays. The vacation period at Georgia begins Thursday for the Christmas holidays.

The football banquet given by Dr. Soule, of the agricultural school, has been postponed until after the holidays.

Rex Earhart, backfield coach, will be in charge of the train which goes on to Athens.

"I guess we will be the shock troops," said Rex. "We will stand around Georgia and Costa's each morning for an hour or so to answer all the questions."

It should be emphasized again for the benefit of Georgia fans that the game at Los Angeles was just one of those games where a superior team clicks with all its full force, while the defeated team was unable to muster any of its full force. It was a sort of anti-climax for the Georgians. The Georgia Tech game was the last game for them.

It is quite possible that the Tech game will be the final one on the 1932 schedule. Certainly the schedule will not be as rigorous as the one of this year.

Decatur To Honor Grid Champions
Decatur High's North Georgia Interscholastic Conference football champions for the past two seasons, will be guests of the Decatur home economics department at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the annual dinner at the school.

Decatur won its second successive N. G. I. C. championship in a game in two years, but dropped a one-sided contest to Ashland, Ky., in a post-season charity game two weeks ago.

Wallace Wade Picks Tutane To Defeat Southern California

Duke Coach Calls Wave Great Eleven

Thinks Green Wave Most Powerful Foe Trojans Have Faced; Honored Here.

By Jimmy Jones.

Wallace Wade, whose University of Alabama football team won two Rose Bowl games and tied one on three trips to the west coast, picks Tutane to defeat Southern California's New Year's Day game in spite of the latter team's 60-0 defeat of Georgia.

Wade, whose opinion is worth something in view of his remarkable success in tilting with far west eleven, has not changed his attitude on Tutane since Southern California's rout of the Bulldogs, generally conceded to be the south's second strongest team.

"Tutane is a great team with a rugged defense, a great passing attack and powerful individual players in all departments, especially at the guards and ends. I believe she has the stuff to win," stated the noted producer of Dixie champions.

Wade admitted that the Trojans packed a lot of power but also stated that they had not met a team this year of Tutane's caliber and versatility. He pointed out that in all the games Bierman's men had played, they always had the punch necessary to win out.

The former mentor of the Crimson Tide made a flying visit to Atlanta, en route to New Orleans for the conference meeting at New Orleans, to be the principal speaker at the Duke University Day dinner at the Athletic Club.

OUTLINES SYSTEM. During the course of his speech, Wade outlined briefly the athletic system at Duke, praised the faculty there as one of the "finest in the world" and stated that he was well pleased with his first 10 months of connection with the university.

"As for our football team, we did as well as could be expected this year, winning five of our ten games, losing three and tying two," Wade remarked. Regarding the future of Duke teams, the coach declared that it was not his purpose to develop a winner at any cost and that he did not want to see any abnormal development of the team.

"I want to bring football along gradually and at the same time accomplish something that will be worthwhile to the student body with our intramural program," he said.

An alumnus asked him about a championship team next year.

HOPES TO IMPROVE. "We'll be lucky to win a championship in the next two years, but we hope to be better in 1932," he answered.

Someone asked him when he thought Duke would be able to defeat North Carolina. (They played a 0-0 tie this year.)

"We're not concentrating on beating any one team, not even Carolina, but only hope we'll develop enough to play a strong schedule," Wade said.

Wade also stated that about 150 freshmen came out in the fall and that of this number 75 or 80 remained out of all season.

Regarding the extensive intramural program of athletics that had been outlined at Duke, Wade pointed out that it was the purpose to give every able-bodied student a thorough physical education. Of a student body of 2,000, including 505 women students, there are 1,750 now taking part in campus athletics under expert supervision, he said.

ALL TAKE PART. All freshmen and sophomores are required to select a different sport for each semester and these include boxing, swimming, basketball, track, and

GEORGIA SLATE IS ANNOUNCED FOR NEXT YEAR

Bulldogs To Play N. Y. U. in Only Intersection Game.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 16.—(AP)—The University of Georgia football team will play only one intersectional football game in 1932, according to the tentative schedule made public today.

The one intersectional game will be against New York University in New York November 5. The schedule follows:

October 1—V. P. I. at Athens.
October 8—Tulane at New Orleans.
October 15—North Carolina at Athens.
October 22—Vanderbilt (place pending).
October 29—Florida at Athens.
November 5—New York University at New York.
November 12—Clemson at Athens (pending).
November 19—Alabama at Columbus.
November 26—Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

The Clemson game depends on ability of that school to make required shifts in schedule.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, faculty chairman of athletics, en route home from California with the Georgia team, emphasized that the schedule was purely tentative. He said some changes might be made in New Orleans at the Southern conference meeting.

PENN FAVORS DE-EMPHASIZING

Alumni Head in Address Here Tells of New Policy.

The University of Pennsylvania is taking the lead among eastern colleges and universities in "de-emphasizing football," James C. Erwin, Boston businessman and vice president of the U. of Pennsylvania Alumni Association, said in an address here Wednesday to the Atlanta chapter of the association at its quarterly meeting at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

"Pennsylvania has already employed a football coach who is a regular member of the faculty," Mr. Erwin said.

"The university is encouraging and getting larger numbers of candidates for the football team. Football once again is becoming a sport and is no longer a business. We are going to continue our efforts and other schools and universities are going to follow our lead."

About 20 of the 50 members of the association living in Atlanta attended Wednesday's meeting which was presided over by T. T. Flagg, president of the Atlanta chapter.

players on Sunday and found all of them studying," he said.

E. Ralph Paris, president of the Atlanta chapter of Duke alumni, pointed out the school's expansion since Mr. Duke's bequest seven years ago. When the school was known as Trinity College there were 1,000 students and 100 faculty members. Now there are over 2,500 students and 250 faculty members.

Mr. Paris also introduced Coach Wade.

Dr. Franklin Parker, dean of the theological school at Emory, gave the invocation. Walter P. Andrews, of Atlanta, an alumnus, also addressed the alumni.

T. R. Waggoner, of the Trust Company of Georgia, was named president in the re-election of officers and LeRoy Riddick named vice president. Dr. N. T. Teague was re-elected secretary and treasurer for another year. Mr. Paris is the retiring president and H. A. Sigman the retiring vice president.

Around 30 guests attended the banquet, including Dr. Luther B. Christie, pastor of Ponce de Leon Baptist; Jake Harris and other well-known Atlantans.

John Patrick Is a Poet

JACOBS, ANDERSON DISCUSS GRID SITUATION Petrel Captain Studios

By Jack Troy.

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, was conversing with Frank Anderson, director of athletics, "Frank," asked Dr. Jacobs, "do you think if all colleges in the United States offered no aid or inducement to athletes, that the students would play football for the love of the game?"

"First of all," replied Mr. Frank Anderson, "you would have to change the name from United States to Utopia."

Frank Anderson is somewhat of a jack-of-all-trades at Oglethorpe, and he does every job well. He is registrar, athletic director and coach of the baseball team, officially, and unofficially he is the students' friend and counselor.

There is no way of knowing just how many Oglethorpe students, past and present, have gone to this kindly, sympathetic gentleman for advice, to pour out their troubles and to receive encouragement and solutions to the problems of college life.

Because of having known Frank Anderson and paying attention to his guidance, many Oglethorpe graduates have entered the business world and made successes.

GETS RESULTS. He never misses an opportunity to hone his athletes and stress upon them the importance of studying, getting that degree. His untiring efforts get results.

For instance, John Patrick, stocky guard, who is the newly elected captain of the Oglethorpe football team for 1932, is one of the best students on the campus. And there are many others who listen to the sage advice of Frank Anderson and prepare for that later game of life.

John Patrick, if you please, is a junior and class poet! His grades have never fallen below 85 since he has been on the Oglethorpe campus, and usually they range around 95.

COMBINATION. Here he is, a student who can rhyme "love and dove" in the classroom and "fight with might" on the football field. It's an unusual combination, but he has it and he has worked out very successfully.

Patrick was perhaps the most consistent lineman on the Oglethorpe team during the last season. He was never out because of injury. And on the campus, Pat is one of the most popular students.

They rank Pat with Curly Fulton, Caruso Hardin and Hoke Bell. He has not quite measured up as yet to the brilliant play of these former Oglethorpe greats, but next year he is expected to equal them.

FULTON BACK. Fulton has returned to Atlanta after a fine season with the Brooklyn Dodgers, for whom he was a star lineman. Stumpy Thomson was a teammate of Fulton and he has a lot to learn from Fulton played a consistently good game.

And there was the paring session of Kenneth (Dapper) Myers, Norcross, one of the outstanding Oglethorpe backs of all time, who graduated this year.

When Coach Harry Robertson calls out the candidates for spring practice on January 16 for a six-week period, the loss of six stalwart players will be keenly felt. An entire backfield—Herrin, Myers, Lefty Syper and Anderson—and two star linemen—Paul Parker, Bryant, end, and Paul Goldsmith, guard, end—will be missing.

There is no question that they are the finest backs as a unit Oglethorpe ever graduated.

cret payments to football players had been uncovered by a secret investigating committee.

"It is an outrageous lie," Little declared, after reading the story which was in the Atlanta Constitution. "I don't want to be mixed up in anything so rotten as this."

The Spectator, undergraduate paper, and a member of the secret committee said by the World-Telegram to have undertaken the investigation, to find out the truth for the charges and then added: "I don't want to be mixed up in anything so rotten as this."

Committee Also Denies Charges. NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Published charges that professionalism had been discovered among football and baseball players at Columbia University were described as a "fabrication" today by the five members of an allegedly secret investigating committee of the Nacoms Society at Columbia, to which a newspaper has ascribed the charges.

The published story took on the appearance of a hoax, however, as the five members of the alleged secret committee, named in the newspaper article, wrote President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia, and denied it all.

CENTRE CAPTAIN. DANVILLE, Ky., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Yater Breeding, of Danville, was elected captain of the 1932 Centre College football team at the annual grid banquet tonight. Breeding has been a varsity guard for the last two years. Varsity letters were given to 22 men and 23 freshmen received numerals.

SHOOTER DIES. DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Charles W. Budd, 38, once a leading trapshooter, died at his home today. Budd was chosen on the team in 1901 to represent the United States in international matches.

MEETING CALLED BY ORGANIZERS OF NEW LEAGUE

Twelve Cities Asked To Send Delegates to Montgomery Conclave.

By Jimmy Jones.

Twelve cities, thought to be vitally interested in reorganization of a new Class B baseball league in this section of the old Sally and Southeastern, now defunct, have been asked to send representatives to a meeting to be held in the interest of the proposition at Montgomery, Ala., Sunday.

Citizens of the cities which have been closely connected with the move for the return of baseball called the meeting. Headquarters will be at the Jeff Davis hotel and other caucuses will be held from time to time until a new organization is effected.

Five cities have reported they are ready to enter clubs in such a league and Jacksonville or Mobile is being considered as the sixth member.

The five already willing to co-operate are Macon, Columbus, Augusta, Montgomery and Selma. Macon and Augusta were in the old Sally, while Montgomery and Selma were members of the Southeastern. The last-named city won the last pennant in that loop.

The promise of aid in maintaining franchises has been obtained from three major league clubs—Brooklyn Dodgers, Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers. This trio would like to lease "farms" in the first Class B loop.

Nap Rucker will represent Brooklyn at the Montgomery party Sunday. Rucker is greatly interested in helping to revive minor league baseball, and so is Judge W. G. Bramham, recently appointed chairman of the minor league committee investigating and reporting on conditions in leagues lower than the majors.

Speaking in behalf of Macon, Roy C. Williams, former president of the Macon Peaches, wrote organizers of the Montgomery meeting that while he would be unable to attend due to business pressure, he was sure that Macon was ready to enter any league operated on a sound basis.

Cliff Green, former Southeastern head, is being boosted by the Montgomery group for president and Williams also has numerous followers who would like to see him elected. Both are experienced baseball men.

Asheville Club Sought as Farm

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Officials of the Louisville American Association Baseball Club plan to obtain the Asheville Club of the Piedmont league for a farm before the end of the week.

W. F. Knebelkamp, president, and William Neal, vice president and general manager of the Louisville club, are here tomorrow night for Asheville. They said they hoped to close the deal Friday or Saturday.

The Colonels operated the Dayton, Ohio, club of the Central league as a farm in 1929 and 1930, but the Central league did not operate last year. The Louisville moguls are said to be anxious to establish their next one in the sunny south.

Pi Kappas Win Oglethorpe Title

Completing their schedule undefeated, the Pi Kappa Phi football team has won the intramural championship at Oglethorpe. In the final game, the Pi Kappas defeated Alpha Lambda Tau, 24 to 0.

Clayton Robinson, first halfback for the Pi Kappas, starred with three brilliant runs to touchdowns. Harold Martin scored the other touchdown. It was the fourth successive victory for the Pi Kappas.

O'Neal, Paget Fight Draw on G.M.A. Card

Four extra-round bouts, with the main attraction ending in a draw, featured the opening Tuesday night of a series of boxing cards in the G. M. A. gymnasium.

O'Neal, G. I. A. A. light-heavyweight champion, and Paget, fought four rounds in the 120-pound division in an exhibition here last night.

In the first two rounds the former heavyweight champion walloped Alvin Young, of North Georgia Agricultural College, tonight in the opening match of the boxing season for both teams.

Lide, Clemson, got a technical knockout over Thompson, bantamweight, Moore, Clemson, featherweight, knocked out Keith in the first round.

Other bouts went to a decision, two going into an extra round.

Jack Dempsey Wins In Winnipeg Matches

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Attracting one of the largest crowds ever to see a sporting event in Winnipeg, Jack Dempsey fought four easy rounds against three Canadian boxers in an exhibition here last night.

In the first two rounds the former heavyweight champion walloped Alvin Young, of North Georgia Agricultural College, tonight in the opening match of the boxing season for both teams.

Lide, Clemson, got a technical knockout over Thompson, bantamweight, Moore, Clemson, featherweight, knocked out Keith in the first round.

Other bouts went to a decision, two going into an extra round.

STAR IS CAPTAIN.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Harold High, Associated Press All-S. I. A. A. quarterback, was elected captain of Southwestern's football team for 1932 at banquet tonight. High lives at Bessemer, Ala. Elliott Perrette, of Hazlehurst, Miss., was named alternate. Twenty-three players received letters.

Bobby Accepts Office in P. G. A.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, former holder of all four major golfing titles, has accepted the honorary vice presidency of the Professional Golfers' Association.

Charles Hall, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, today received Bobby's acceptance of the office. He will be called in on all sessions of the executive committee of the association and like other members of the committee will have a vote in all matters coming before it.

Jones retired from tournament play in 1930 after capturing the British open and amateur and the American open and amateur titles.

THE PORTLIGHT

By Krawtaw Rise

The Roughest Game. (Dedicated to the bridge battle of the century now going on.) You may think the son of a gun gets a trifle out of hand. When the guy and festive ump announces "Out!" And the football legends rise with raw murder in their eyes. When you fail to crown the stars they rave about. But they're pickers, one and all, when it comes to the call. That re-echoes from the valley to the ridge. To the language, loud and long, to the phrases, rough and strong. Which my partners often slip to me at bridge.

I have listened to McGraw when he felt a trifle raw, And the same for Johnny Evers' jubilee. When they called him out at first, where the vocal torrent burst, Like the Mississippi river on a spree; But their stuff was dull and tame, minus any virile flame, As inept as if a fat man murmured "squidge," To the pasting that I get when I'm doubled and I'm set In a friendly little grapple known as "bridge."

Yes, I've heard the duffers rave as they found a bunkered grave And their blazing nibbicks rumbled up the sand; And they rarely whisper "hut" as they blow a two-foot putt, With a line of conversation that is banned; But I tell you they are dumb and their silent throats are numb Where the ratio is a mammoth to a midge. In the wild, impassioned squawk, like the war cry of a hawk, From the partners that I often draw at bridge.

Grove the Great. So marked was the mastery of the Athletics' brilliant hurler, Bob Grove, that his failure to dazzle in the World Series was the big surprise of that party. Despite this tapering off in October, Grove's records prove him by far the best left-hander of modern baseball and a throwback to the days of the mound titan. Not since 1890 has a pitcher written down as handsome a winning percentage, Grove's 31 wins and 4 losses giving him a mark of .886.

As was pointed out at the end of the pennant season, just before Grove's fall, the pitcher was being overworked, the first three defeats he sustained were almost more glorious than his victories, for in each case he missed a big win and a throwback to the days of the mound titan. Not since 1890 has a pitcher written down as handsome a winning percentage, Grove's 31 wins and 4 losses giving him a mark of .886.

Christy Mathewson's mark of 37 victories in the 1908 season, when he pitched 37 consecutive games, is the real meaning of the word, and Jack Chesbro's 1904 total of 41 victories are the best performance of modern baseball.

Grove became the leading strike-out pitcher of the league. Grove, next to his teammate, Rube Walberg, was the most active moundman in the league, with 289 strikeouts of service to Walberg's 201. This is yeoman service by present-day standards, but back in the dawn age A. G. Spalding pitched 300 in 1890, and 400 in 1891 and 4 and 3 in 1894. Charley Radbourne worked in 77 games, 3 of them World Series contests, and won 63 of them.

The American league pitching record shows why the Athletics could drum major their set without running wild on the bags. Grove, Earnshaw, Rommel and Walberg led the staff to an earned-run average of 3.47 runs per game.

The Washington Senators' staff was second in efficiency and the Yankees' third. Vernon Gomez was the light of the Yankees, giving away only to Grove in earned-run yield. Playing his first full year in the majors, Gomez pitched 40 games for the McClellan farm, and won 21 and losing 9 for an earned-run average of 2.63.

No matter how the football season is stretched beyond its season boundaries, there always seem to be some enthralling games ahead. Aside from the natural in the Rose Bowl, between the Southern California Trojans and Tulane's Coney Island, the Pacific coast has another big attraction in the San Francisco classic, the east-west game in Kezar stadium, for charity.

In many ways this game between two all-star teams is the most interesting gridiron treat of the season. It is the only opportunity to see two outstanding men from various colleges playing side-by-side, and as the coaches of both teams have wisely confined their maneuvers to simple plays, the individual play of the men stands out.

The east's team this year should be one of the strongest eleven ever assembled for an actual game. The backfield has two of the outstanding quarterbacks of the country, Gene McIVER, of Tennessee, and Morton, of Dartmouth, both super-dime passers. It has the outstanding climax-runner of the last two years, Marchie Schwartz, of Notre Dame, and a fullback who has lauded to the skies by those who saw him in action week after week, namely, Hinkle, of Bucknell. Purvis, of Purdue; Murphy, of Fordham; Rehola, of Wisconsin, and Russell, of Northwestern, are additional backs of much versatility and power.

With Marvill, of Northwestern, and McMurdo, of Pitt, included in the tackle squad, and Hickman, of Tennessee, and Hoffman, of Notre Dame, listed among the guards, the east can offer a remarkable forward wall. Orsi, of Colgate, tops the ends of the Atlantic seaboard and he'll be in action, with Ellert, of Syracuse; Teeter, of Minnesota, and Hewitt, of Michigan, and Miller, of Purdue, and Marsland, of Colgate, are the centers of the brigade mobilized by Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, and Andy Kerr, of Colgate.

This super-team assembled at Northwestern on Saturday and will then depart to try to make good against the west's claims of gridiron dominion.

Western Maryland Retains Dick Harlow

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Jockey George Elston, who rode 58 winners during the northern racing season, captured the honors at Jefferson Park today when he placed five mounts in the money.

BIGGER AND BETTER.

The Giants' management likes the work of Johnny Verge, third baseman, so well that his contract recently was torn up and a new and bigger one given him.

MAJOR SALARIES NOT TO BE CUT

Heydler Declares There Will Be No Major Reductions.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Despite the recent economy moves in baseball, there will be no general cut in the salaries of major league players according to John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

In a discussion today of the acts of the major league meetings at Chicago, Heydler said the move toward reduction of salaries was "aimed principally at a number of players whose salaries were out of line with the prevailing conditions."

"Almost every club had some players who were getting more than the returns justified," Heydler explained. "These men will feel the cut. But there are any number of players in our league, and I presume the same is true of the American, who are in line for better salaries than they received during the last season."

Funeral Notices

(COLONIES)
In Memoriam.

In loving memory of my darling little daughter, Mabel Scott, who was a senior of Booker Washington High school. She left me two years ago. Gone but not forgotten.

MRS. ELIZABETH SCOTT, mother.
